American Planes Make World Records

Lt. Maughan's Average
236.587 Miles Per Hour

THE Contest Committee of the National Aeronautic Association of U. S. A., in an official statement dated April 20, says that Lt. Russell L. Maughan, U.S.A., established a world record of 236.587 miles per hour in speed tests at Wilbur Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio. His mark of 380.751 kilometers per hour over the one-kilometer course will stand officially for all time, as this distance of 3,280.8 feet was abandoned for speed trials on April 1. Maughan's flight was made March 29.

The airplane was a Curtiss R-6 with Curtiss D-12 motor of 465 horsepower. The Contest Committee makes this statement: "It has been necessary to discard the attempts made by Lt. L. J. Maitland, U.S.A., in view of the fact that he did not maintain horizontal flight over the course as required by the rules and regulations of the Federation Aeronautique Internationale. This is deeply regretted by the National Aeronautic Association, for we realize that it was the full intention of Lt. Maitland to maintain horizontal flight, and we regret that the regulations make it impossible to accept his speeds."

Lt. Maughan's speed exceeds the record recently made by Sadi Lacoite of France, of 233.01 miles per hour, by nearly four miles per hour.

Lt. Maitland exceeded the Lacoite record in his two attempts, making a maximum speed of 239.95 miles per hour over the course. Maughan's maximum speed was at the rate of 435.308 kilometers per hour. In his dash of 8.27 seconds he attained a speed of approximately 4 1/2 miles per minute.

In a letter to Lt. Maitland the Contest Committee of the N.A.A. says:

"It is stated by Mr. Orville Wright, who acted as our official representative, that on two trips over the course your flight was not horizontal, as required by the rules. While we realize that this was unintentional on your part, and that there was probably no speed gained by the descent credited against you, still it is impossible for us to accept the figures given."

"You have shown yourself to be one of the greatest high-speed pilots in the world, and regardless of our inability to homologate your flight, it will always be felt that you have traveled faster than any human being on earth."

Lt. Alexander Pearson, U.S.A., at Dayton, Ohio, on March 29, is accredited with a record of 270.06 kilometers per hour over the course of 500 kilometers. This establishes the first record for speed made over the 500 kilometer course, or a distance of 310.685 miles. He flew a Verville-Sperry airplane with Wright motor of 350 horsepower.

Lts. R. H. Harris and R. Lockwood U. S. A., at Dayton, Ohio, on March 29 are accredited with a record of 205.067 kilometers per hour over the course of 1,000 kilometers. This record exceeds the record of Boussoutrot and Bernard, made in France in June, 1920, who did the distance in 10 hours 19 minutes 46 seconds, by more than five hours. Harris and Lockwood's time being 4 hours 52 minutes 35 seconds. They flew a DeHavilland 4-L plane with Liberty motor of 400 horsepower.

Our Army an Agency for Peace

THE Secretary of War, in an address to the National Press Club Post of the American Legion, in Washington, on April 24, stressed the point so often presented by this paper to its readers, that the object of the War Department is not to make war, but to preserve peace. Mr. Weeks, in the course of his remarks on the value and need of national war preparedness, advanced arguments that will be supported by all straight thinking, patriotic Americans. His concluding words follow:

"We have always desired to avoid entanglements in the affairs of foreign nations, and especially of the European powers. At the close of this great war it was appreciated, as never before in our history, that to exist free from foreign entanglements' demands of us that we be fully prepared to resist the blandishments as well as the onslaughts of our associate nations."

"There is full evidence in history that those rulers who would keep their people uneducated that they might easily be deceived would also urge pacifism upon the masses in order that they might be swayed by a militaristic rule. A firm belief in this truth has been one of the guiding principles of our governmental leadership."

"Effective national defense depends, therefore, upon the extent to which the people appreciate the need for it. This appreciation will come only when the people know and are able to interpret the facts relative to national life and international relations. In a word, education of all the people in these matters must go on all of the time if our representative Government, wherein public opinion controls governmental action, is to survive and grow stronger."

Command of Troops Roster Approved, Effective July 1

THE Secretary of War and the Chief of Staff have approved the recommendations of the General Staff for the creation of a command of troops roster. It is to go into effect July 1, 1923, and is regarded in the War Department as the most important change that has been made in the policy of assigning officers since the war.

The command of troops roster will take precedence over the General Staff eligibility list. It is believed that the new policy will so strongly emphasize duty with troops that the chief ambition of an Army officer will be an assignment to command in the field. While it applies only to colonels, it is apparent that officers in the lower grades will be anxious to secure service with organizations in the field, so that when they reach the grade of colonel they will be qualified to command a regiment.

Under the new policy, the record of a colonel as a commander of a regiment will be the paramount consideration in his eligibility for promotion to brigadier general. Although the policy originated in the General Staff, duty on the General Staff is subordinated to that of the command of troops. So that all of the combat arms can be included under the general policy, the term "regiment or corresponding unit" is used in forming the roster. Engineers are included in combatant branches.

The following memorandum from the War Department outlines the new policy:

A. With reference to the assignment in rotation of officers, not serving overseas, to command of regiments in the United States, the Secretary of War directs:

1. That subject to the following provisions, colonels of Infantry and colonels of other branches on duty with the Infantry (not serving overseas) be assigned to command of regiments in the United States by roster—the colonel with the least amount of duty to his credit in actual command of regiments or higher tactical units be first to be so assigned; that, except as hereinafter prescribed, the assignment of colonels of Infantry, and colonels on duty with the Infantry (not serving overseas) in command of regiments in the United States, take precedence over all other classes of duty:

(a) The assignment of officers to foreign service will continue as heretofore prescribed (G-1/4277-4294-4305) with the following exceptions:

If a colonel is due to command a regiment as herein provided, and it can be definitely foreseen that he will be due for foreign service within one year, he may be assigned to the first vacancy overseas (on the recommendation of the Chief of Infantry) in like manner as though his name appeared at the head of the foreign service roster of his branch and grade.

(b) A colonel on duty during any school year at a General or Special Service School, with an R.O.T.C. unit, or as student, observer, etc., under the provisions of Sec. 127a, act of June 4, 1920, will not be assigned to duty as regimental commander, effective on a date prior to the close of that school year.

(c) A colonel of another branch, on being assigned to duty with the Infantry, and detailed to attend a course of instruction at the Infantry School, will be exempt from assignment to command a regiment effective prior to the date of expiration of that course.

(d) As a rule, a colonel will not be assigned to duty in command of a regiment (when a permanent change of station is involved) effective prior to the date he completes one year's duty at his present station. Exceptions to the foregoing are authorized in case the officer completes a specific duty, detail or assignment prior to the expiration of the one-year period.

(e) A colonel holding the temporary grade of general officer by reason of being detailed as a chief or assistant chief of branch, or a colonel detailed as provided in Sec. 4, act of June 4, 1920, in the Inspector General's Department, Bureau of Insular Affairs, Militia Bureau, Adjutant General's Department, or as a member of the General Staff Corps, will not be assigned to command a regiment effective prior to the date of the expiration of his detail.

(f) A colonel awaiting orders, whose turn for assignment in command of a regiment can be unmistakably fore-

Interesting Army Demonstrations Around New York

Developing One-Army Idea in 2d Coast Artillery District

A VERY important project towards cementing the one Army idea has been arranged by Brig. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, U.S.A., commanding the 2d Coast Artillery District, with headquarters at Fort Totten, N.Y., and Regular, National Guard and Reserve officers will get together for the benefit of all. About 1,000 officers will take part.

Gen. Drum has arranged a program of "Anti-Aircraft Days" at Forts Totten and Tilden, N.Y., and of "Harbor Defense Days" at Forts Hancock, N.J., and Tilden, N.Y., which promises to be exceedingly instructive and interesting to all concerned.

The object of the "Anti-Aircraft Days," as stated by Gen. Drum, is to bring together all Coast Artillery anti-aircraft officers of the three branches of the Army in the vicinity of New York city, in order that they may become better acquainted, and to show them by lectures, demonstrations, drills and target practice the present status of anti-aircraft defenses. Also by recreational features to make the days a pleasing relaxation from civil vocations.

Anti-Aircraft Days

The first "Anti-Aircraft Day" will be held at Fort Totten, Saturday, May 12, from 2 p.m. to midnight. The second day will be held at Fort Tilden, N.Y., Saturday, June 2, from 2 p.m. to 10 p.m.

On the first day the program will include addresses of welcome by Gen. Drum and Col. C. H. Hilton, U.S.A.; lecture by Capt. B. F. Harmon, U.S.A., on anti-aircraft defense of front line and rear localities; a short talk by Maj. M. M. Kimmel, U.S.A., on tactical organization of an anti-aircraft regiment at war strength; a talk by Col. H. D. Cushing, U.S.A., on machine guns in action. Col. Cushing commanded the 1st Anti-Aircraft Machine Gun Battalion in France. There will be a review of the 62d Artillery and a demonstration by the regiment in taking up a position on the parade ground, an inspection by the officers of the firing batteries and searchlight battery, a short demonstration in each firing battery and searchlight battery, using airplanes as targets; an inspection of model barracks, and a precise calisthenics demonstration by the regiment. There will be a searchlight exhibition and a dance at the Officers Club, in informal dress, in the evening.

The program of the second day at Fort Tilden will include addresses of welcome by Gen. Drum and Col. C. H. Hilton, U.S.A.; lecture by Capt. B. F. Harmon, U.S.A., on anti-aircraft fire control and the several methods of firing both three-inch and machine guns; a lecture on the employment of searchlights and the mechanical operation of the same, by Capt. W. M. Gravens, U.S.A., assisted by an electrical engineer from the Sperry Gyroscope Co.; day firing demonstration by the 62d Artillery at aerial targets with three-inch guns and anti-aircraft machine guns. There will be a recreational period for swimming, and after supper there will be a night firing demonstration by the 62d Artillery with three-inch guns at bursts

Among the votes received have been 120 in one lot from Camp Lewis, Wash., and 48 at one time from the Massachusetts National Guard.

Suggestions

Lieutenant, Air Service, U.S.A.:

"I wish to make the following suggestions:

- "1. That the collar of the overcoat be changed to lines similar to the civilian garment.
- "2. That the short overcoat or mackinaw be allowed for optional wear.
- "3. That all officers be allowed to wear dress boots, either with or without spurs."

Lieutenant, Infantry, U.S.A.:

"To the field uniform add bellows pockets, similar to those now in use by the Marine Corps. Abolish all pin-back collar insignia, substituting a patch of colored cloth indicative of branch with the number of the unit superimposed (embroidered). Insignia of rank as at present, but embroidered. Abolish the use of the Sam Browne belt for service purposes except when the saber is worn."

Major, C.A.O., U.S.A.:

"Every officer should be required to maintain at all times a presentable civilian evening suit and dinner coat. We are now so much thrown with civilians that we should have civilian clothes for social affairs. Either the officer should wear his field uniform or be dressed as a civilian. He is, therefore, always dressed for the part suitably and with minimum expense to himself and he can keep up such dress."

Colonel, O.R.C.:

"In my opinion the collar should be changed to a double roll collar. The contention has been made that the present collar is more dressy than the former roll collar. The former collar could be made just as dressy as the present collar and 100 per cent. more comfortable. . . . I do not believe in changing the uniform to the British type, as our own is good enough if the collar is only made better."

Lieutenant Colonel, O.R.C.:

"In my opinion there is as much argument in favor of the blue uniform as there ever was. Before the World War I thought it was worn too little. It should, for the Regular Army, be the uniform for ordinary garrison wear and the field uniform should be used as its name implies. The argument of expense against the blue uniform seems to me groundless. There is practically no more expense involved except in first outlay. There is little difference in cost between service and dress uniforms when well made of good materials—as an officer's uniform should be. Once on hand, the total hours of wear from a set of uniforms would remain the same. . . . The Army as a whole has never been so well dressed as when blue was the habitual garrison uniform.

Lieutenant, Infantry, O.R.C.:

"I am in favor of an open collar for officers. Personally, I find the choke collar a great nuisance, as it is a torment in hot weather. Substitute embroidered collar insignia for the present near-bronze ornaments, having embroidery of the same color as that of staff or department. Bring back the blue dress uniform and use it for all wear—both formal and informal—after retreat, except in summer, when 'whites' may be worn."

Spreading the One-Army Idea

SCORING "amiable pacifists and the insidious propagandists" who hide behind their skirts to work for the defeat of the National Defense act, Col. Edward Orton, jr., of Columbus, Ohio, addressed nearly 100 officers of the Regular Army, National Guard and Reserve, who held a "get-together" meeting in Akron recently.

Col. Orton, who was the principal speaker, told the assembled officers the best methods to use in "selling" the idea of "national defense for protection" to the American public. He suggested that every officer who is really interested in furthering the purposes of the act do some effectual missionary work in addition to preparing himself for the task of taking part in a possible war of defense. The act has already been emasculated to some extent by the action of Congress in cutting the appropriations, the colonel pointed out, saying further:

"The next Congress will be even harder to deal with, but it will do whatever it thinks the 'people back home' want. Your task is to educate these people to want adequate protection against invasion. Not a military autocracy but an army, composed of all three branches represented here, adequate to protect the nation in time of need."

Maj. Gen. J. H. McRae, 5th Corps Area commander, with headquarters at Fort Hayes, told of the work of the Army and offered the services of himself and staff in any way needed to aid the fight of the Reserve and National Guard officers for the better protection of the nation.

Adj. Gen. F. D. Henderson of Ohio spoke on the friendship now existing between the Regular Army and the National Guard, as contrasted with the attitude some years ago. He said that each can now learn something from the other.

Other speakers were Col. C. D. Rhodes, U.S.A.; Col. F. B. Shaw, chief of Militia affairs, 5th Corps Area, and Lt. Col. G. Harvey, chief of staff, 83d Division.

Lt. Col. C. M. Piper, O.R.C., of Akron, who arranged the "three-in-one" meeting, acted as toastmaster.

THE THREE "AGES" OF SHOEMAKING

For centuries and centuries the method of making footwear did not vary. A mural painting discovered in the ruins of ancient Thebes shows Egyptian sandal-makers at work after the manner of the early New England cobblers. Until a few generations ago boots and shoes were made entirely by hand, and wholly by the individual craftsman. This was the first "age" of shoemaking.

In the Eighteenth Century small domestic shoe-shops arose, and groups of men and women, in shops and homes, made the footwear of the people, the work being more or less divided, but all still done by hand. This was the second "age".

About the middle of the Nineteenth Century the factory system developed and the introduction of shoe machinery began, until to-day in no field of manufacture has greater progress been made or more efficiency been attained through machinery. This is the third "age".

There is a machine now available for practically every process in the making of shoes. And, by the way, there are one hundred and forty different operations in the making of a Goodyear Welt Shoe, universally recognized as without a peer in those qualities which make a shoe desirable,—comfort, durability, appearance.

UNITED SHOE MACHINERY CORPORATION

Special Washington Service News Letter

By E. B. Johns

GEN. PERSHING has become so deeply interested in the views of the Army on the uniform problem as expressed through the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL's referendum that he has decided to address a communication to the corps area commanders on the subject. His communication will follow the lines of his inquiry that he made of the General Staff and of the questions that were submitted in the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL's referendum.

In the meantime, Gen. Pershing will study the analysis of the vote in the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL, and read the extracts of the communications that have been sent to this paper on the subject. Both Gen. Pershing and Maj. Gen. John L. Hines, Deputy Chief of Staff, have expressed their appreciation of the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL's efforts to secure an expression from the Service on the uniform question.

Gen. Pershing, who is giving his personal attention to the uniform matter, is anxious to pursue a policy that will be generally satisfactory to the Service. He recognizes that the uniform is largely a personal matter, and that it is important to consider the wishes of the entire Army. In this relation, he refers to the Army of the United States, as changes in the uniform mean as much to the National Guard and the Reserves as they do to the Regular Army. At this time, when the National Guard and the Officers' Reserve Corps are being developed, not only Gen. Pershing but the members of the General Staff are inclined to hesitate to approve any recommendations for a change in the uniform that may be objectionable to the junior components of the Army of the United States.

The inquiry that Gen. Pershing will send out to the corps area commanders indicates that there will be no immediate action upon the recommendations of the General Staff which are now before him. On other matters of a technical nature involving military questions, the general would no doubt accept the recommendations from the General Staff and the chiefs of departments. On this question he appeals to the entire Army for an expression of its opinion.

Gen. Pershing's Summer Plans

MOST of the summer Gen. Pershing will be in the field watching the progress of the training activities of the Army. He has already visited three corps areas, and is gratified with the progress that has been made. He observes that the work has been well planned and the different corps area commanders are going forward with their plans more satisfactorily than they did last year, when they were not advised in advance as to the funds that would be available. The Army had practically two weeks last year to get ready for the different training camps, while this year it has been working on the matter for two months.

Gen. Pershing was particularly gratified with the esprit de corps that is developing in the Citizens' Military Training Camps. A movement has been started in the 2d Corps Area to organize C.M.T.C. Clubs. This has been initiated by the graduates of the camp without any suggestions from the officers of the Army. The movement is extending into the 1st Corps Area, and no doubt it will become very popular in the training camps this year.

Differences With the Comptroller

THE controversy between the Comptroller General and the Navy Department has reached a stage at which communications between the two parties are not being given out for publication. It develops that the letter of the Comptroller published in last week's ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL was not intended for publication. Furthermore, it is stated that anything that the Comptroller has to say to the Secretary or that the Secretary has to say to the Comptroller on the subjects will not be given out through regular channels.

In one department this week it was stated that the Secretary of the Navy has answered the letter from the Comptroller General which was printed in last week's ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL. At the other department this report was emphatically denied. Up to this writing, neither the Comptroller General nor the Navy Department has given out the Secretary's letter, if he has written it. The whole affair is shrouded with mystery, and the relations between the Navy Department and the Comptroller General's office are worse than strained.

It is asserted in some quarters that an effort is being made to adjust the differences between the Comptroller General and the War and Navy Departments. Officials high in administration circles, it is alleged, have taken an interest in the matter with a view of adjusting the differences before Congress convenes. Unless this is done, the whole affair will be aired in Congress, and it is urged that this will not be of benefit to the administration.

National Guard Mobilization Regulations

IN the event of a war, Army Regulations 130-10, which were approved on April 25 will be an important document in mobilization of the National Guard. These regulations specify how the National Guard will be called and be drafted into the Federal service. Many of the vexing questions which resulted in friction between the War Department and the National Guard, would have been solved if Army Regulations 130-10 had been in effect when this country went into the World War. The work of preparing these regulations was inaugurated in the War Department on Dec. 10, 1922. They have not only passed through every division of the General Staff, the Adjutant General's Department, the Judge Advocate General's Department, the Militia Bureau, but were approved by the National Guard Board, of which Brig. Gen. Charles I. Martin is chairman.

Reappointment of Demoted Non-Coms.

THE various branches of the War Department have all adopted a definite policy with respect to the demoted non-commissioned officers regaining their places formerly held in the first three grades, though it is possible that in a few of the cases where a N.C.O. whose period of active service is approaching termination through retirement, he may be advanced on the list of his respective grade by reason of his splendid record.

Quartermaster Corps.—Non-commissioned officers reduced under provisions of Cir. 275, 1921, as amended, who were appointed to one of the three higher grades prior to April 6, 1917, as the result of competitive examination, will be reappointed to such grades in order of their demotion, providing their record is clear. This policy will be followed until such time as examinations are held. It is contemplated holding examinations for appointment to the three higher grades, Q. M. Corps, about March 1, 1924.

Air Service.—Most of the master and technical sergeants of Air Service who were demoted have been restored to the eligible list. Staff sergeants are appointed by organization and field commanders. In a few cases where it is a question as to whether some of the demoted men possess the qualifications to hold either of the first two grades they may be required to take an examination.

Coast Artillery Corps.—As vacancies occur the Coast Artillery Corps will promote all these men without examination, they having already held such warrants, many of them having passed excellent examinations. One demoted man in this corps has been reappointed to former grade. On Aug. 1, 1923, the first ten men on the list of staff sergeants (radio) will take examination for technical sergeant (radio), examination to be held in the coast defenses where stationed. Corps area commanders will notify the men.

Field Artillery.—With the exception of the administrative sections of the office of the Chief of Field Artillery, no examinations will be held. Commanding officers in Field Artillery organizations appoint the N.C.O.

Cavalry.—The reappointment of the demoted N.C.O. in the Cavalry arm is similar to that of the Field Artillery. Character, leadership, length of service and efficiency record will play a large part in reappointments. The opinion of the respective immediate superior officers and their recommendations really determine.

Infantry.—With the exception of the Infantry School and the Tank School, the reappointments of the demoted N.C.O. in the Infantry will be made by the regimental commanders in the field. As a general policy, those who have been demoted will be appointed first. There will be no examination.

Chemical Warfare Service.—The Chemical Warfare Service will in all probability prepare an eligible list of demoted men from which promotions will be made, without examination.

Ordnance Department.—The Ordnance Department has prepared an eligible list of demoted men and they will be promoted in order of demotion. Master and technical sergeants are made by The Adjutant General on the recommendation of the Chief of Ordnance. First sergeants and other N.C.O. in the Ordnance Department are appointed by the department.

Signal Corps.—An eligible list will be prepared of demoted men and promotions will be made accordingly without examination.

Medical Department.—Names of the reduced N.C.O. will be placed on an eligible list for reinstatement as vacancies occur, on recommendation of respective C.O., without examination.

Corps of Engineers.—Promotions will be made without examination as vacancies occur, probably in order of demotion.

Finance Department.—A promotion list of the demoted N.C.O. of the Finance Department has been prepared. The Chief of Finance has had corps area commanders secure a statement from each of N.C.O. affected as to whether he desires reappointment as vacancies occur. This will govern the Finance Department in making appointments.

Chief Signal Officer Invents New Alphabet

MAJ. GEN. GEORGE O. SQUIER, Chief Signal Officer, U.S.A., announced at the annual meeting of the National Academy of Sciences in Washington April 24 the invention of a new universal alphabet which applies to radio, land lines and submarine cables and exhibited illustrated forms of apparatus for transmitting and receiving the messages. The new alphabet is 2.65 times faster than the present international Morse alphabet now universally employed. Gen. Squier pointed out that the present telegraph alphabet was invented by Prof. Morse over eighty years ago and long before the telephone, the alternating current art, or radio were known. He stressed the point that the old alphabet is entirely out of date and not suited for telegraphy as we know it to-day.

The principle upon which the new alphabet is based is that the dots and dashes occupy equal lengths of time, and no consecutive signals are of the same sign, and the limit of legibility for each letter of the alphabet is practically uniform. In the new alphabet the dots, dashes and spaces are differentiated by different intensities of the sinusoidal wave employed, in exactly the same manner that music and speech are formed. In fact, the principles of the new alphabet serve to bring telegraphy in line with telephony, and base the two arts on the same fundamental principles of modulation.

Navy in Next Congress

REPRESENTATIVE BURTON L. FRENCH of Idaho, the new chairman of the Navy Department Subcommittee of the House Committee on Appropriations, has already shown an intense interest in the Navy. During the trip to Panama and at the maneuvers, there was scarcely a unit of the Fleet that Mr. French did not visit and give it his close attention. He went down in a submarine, he watched the experiments with the aircraft carrier Langley and visited the hospital ships. When the officers appear before his sub-committee to testify on the Appropriation bill, Mr. French will have an intelligent idea as to what they are discussing.

This week Chairman French was at the Department discussing the estimates with the Secretary and Adm. Coontz, Chief of Naval Operations. Before Congress convenes, Chairman French expects to visit all the important navy yards and shore stations. Ever since Mr. French has been in Congress, he has been a close student of matters which came up before his committee and evidently he appreciates the importance of a thorough knowledge of the Navy before attempting to pass upon its budget.

AFTER the reports from the bureaus on amalgamation have been reviewed by the Secretary of the Navy, they will be turned over to the General Board for a study. Although it is recognized now, not only from the reports but through expressions to the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL, that the Navy is against the bill as submitted by the Secretary, the subject is still a live issue.

Before Congress convenes, there will be plenty of time to revise the bill pending in the Department. It is understood that Secretary Denby is of the opinion that out of the reports which have been submitted to him and suggestions that have come from other sources, a bill can be framed that will be satisfactory to the Navy. The Secretary holds that some modified form of amalgamation which will make a single list for the purpose of promotion will contribute much to harmony in the Service. He is much impressed with the Army's single list.

Before the subject is finally closed, the matter of running mates for Marine Corps officers will be given serious consideration. The Secretary is of the opinion that it is of importance to maintain the most harmonious relations not only between the staff and line of the Navy, but between the Navy and the Marine Corps.

New Scout Cruiser Division

IT has been decided to form a division of the new scout cruisers for the Scouting Fleet in the Atlantic. It is believed that the new ships will be in condition to take their places in the Scouting Fleet late this summer or early in the fall. This will be quite an important addition to the naval force in the Atlantic, and will to a great degree compensate the eastern coast for the loss of the larger battleships.

During the year the Department plans to perfect the organization of the United States Fleet in a number of respects. Units which have to a great degree operated independently will be put directly under the commanders of the fleet. As indicated in last issue, the submarines in the Atlantic are to be attached to the Scouting Fleet. The same policy will be pursued in the organization of the submarines in the Pacific.

The destroyers in the Atlantic before the close of the year will be placed directly under the commander of the Scouting Fleet. There will be very few independent units afloat either in the Atlantic or Pacific after the new policy is put into effect.

In filling up the large units of the Fleet, a shortage in flag officers for the Navy Department and important shore billets has been created. The Secretary is hard pressed for flag officers for important duties in the Navy Department, but is determined that the Fleet is to be given the first consideration. He is looking for a flag officer for the War Plans Division and a number of other important duties that he has in mind.

Admiral Chester and Turkey

THE older officers in the Navy have great confidence in Rear Adm. Colby M. Chester to deal with the intricate situation which has grown out of the oil concessions which he has secured in Turkey. They have known that he has been interested in the affairs in Turkey for years and are confident that he is sure of his ground.

Rear Adm. Chester had a notable Civil War record. He entered the Navy in '50 and retired in 1906, and he was at one time commandant of the midshipmen at Annapolis.

Navy Assignments

CAPT. CHESTER WELLS, U.S.N., who is relieved as commander of the submarines in the Atlantic by Rear Adm. M. M. Taylor, U.S.N., will be ordered to the Chief of Naval Operations upon the reporting of Adm. Taylor. Capt. William M. Leahy, U.S.N., who is succeeded by Adm. Taylor in the command of the Control Force, will remain with the Scouting Fleet and be assigned to other duties.

Capt. Frank H. Clark, U.S.N., now serving in Naval Operations in the Department, has been assigned to command the Maryland. He relieves Capt. David F. Sellers, U.S.N., who will report to the Bureau of Navigation.

Comdr. Fred H. Poteet, U.S.N., is to be relieved from the command of the Sirius and assigned to duty as assistant commandant of the 1st Naval District. Comdr. Percy W. Foote, U.S.N., is to be relieved from command of the Patoka and placed in charge of the New York recruiting office.

Chaplains Stand Against Pacifism

A GROUP of clergymen who have seen service as war chaplains or who are now connected with military organizations organized the Chaplains' Conference of the 1st Corps Area recently at Boston, to form a permanent fellowship that will exert its influence, both in and out of the pulpit, in support of the C.M.T.C. The meeting was called by a committee of chaplains of the Massachusetts Department of the Reserve Officers' Association of the United States.

Maj. Gen. André W. Brewster, U.S.A., commanding the 1st Corps Area, was guest of honor. He urged the clergymen to seek the support of their congregations for the act of Congress establishing the training camps.

Secretary of War Weeks sent a letter endorsing the purpose of the meeting, and his civilian aid, Col. Pierpont L. Stackpole, who represented him, offered the New England chaplains an opportunity to name one of their number to the governing committee of twenty of the National Citizens' Training Camps Association. Chaplain Cleland was named by the meeting.

In the course of discussion of the general topic, "Training with the Colors for National Citizenship and Defense," Editor James T. Williams, Jr., of the Transcript, discussed the National Council for the Prevention of War.

Rev. Herbert Spencer Johnson, former pastor of the Warren Avenue Baptist Church and a major in the Intelligence Section, O.R.C., said that to-day there is an extremely dangerous tendency in Protestant pulpits toward pacifism. This danger, he said, is not shared in any such degree by Catholic pulpits. He hoped that the Protestant clergy would all pursue their opportunity to the limit to counteract false pacifist teachings.

Principal Alfred E. Stearns of Phillips Andover Academy assailed the softening influences that he said are at work upon the youth of the present generation.

Lt. Col. Walter C. Sweeney, U.S.A., expressed regret that some church organizations have adopted the pacifist slogan, "No more war." The true slogan, he said, would be, "No more war except in the cause of righteousness and justice."

Rev. Donald H. Gerrish was chosen permanent chairman and Rev. Theodore R. Ludlow secretary of the Chaplains' Conference. Rev. Michael O'Connor, senior chaplain, Mass. N.G.; Rev. Chellis V. Smith and Rev. D. Harold Hickey comprise the Executive Committee.

and balloons, and machine guns at bursts and balloons.

Harbor Defense Days

In addition to the anti-aircraft days, Gen. Drum has also arranged to hold harbor defense days at Fort Hancock, N.J., the object being the same as those explained for the former.

The first day at Fort Hancock will be held on Saturday, May 19, from 3 to 10 p.m., and the second day at Fort Hancock, N.J., and Tilden, N.Y., Saturday, June 16, from 10.30 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The plans for the harbor defense days on the first day will include a welcome by Gen. Drum and Col. J. F. Brady, C.O. of the Coast Defenses of Sandy Hook; lecture by Col. H. J. Watson, U.S.A., on harbor defenses; review of the troops of the coast defense; inspection of a model barracks; demonstration of various artillery work, including submarine practice, sub-caliber practice drill, the combined coast defense drill, and firing at balloons by three-inch anti-aircraft guns. After supper there will be exhibitions of calisthenics and gymnastics, and a dance at the post gymnasium.

While the visiting officers are witnessing artillery demonstrations from 4.30 to 6.45 the ladies of Fort Hancock will hold a tea for the families of visiting officers.

On the second day, June 16, the program will include addresses of welcome by Gen. Drum and Col. J. F. Brady, U.S.A.; a talk on target practice problems of the day; target practice at a towed target with 155-G.P.F. and three-inch anti-aircraft guns. After lunch there will be firing of a combination coast defense and fort command problem, in which two towed targets will be used, and the observation of the firing will be done by the Air Service from Mitchel Field. From 4.45 to 6 p.m. there will be a trip from Fort Hancock to Fort Tilden by boat, and an inspection of firing two shots from a 16-inch long-range B.L.R. will be made. Supper will be had at Fort Tilden and the return trip to New York City will be made by boat at 8 o'clock.

Complete arrangements have been made for transportation by government boat for all the days.

Command of Troops Roster Approved

seen within a period of less than a year, the convenience of the government will be considered in assigning him to command of a regiment rather than assigning him to other duty for a fraction of a year.

(g) An application from a colonel for assignment in command of a regiment as herein provided, when not due therefore, will not be favorably considered.

(h) A colonel, who is recommended, and is under consideration for elimination under the provisions of Sec. 24b, act of June 4, 1920, will not be assigned to a regiment during that period.

2. That the tour of duty in the United States as commander of an Infantry regiment be fixed at two consecutive years; that except in cases of urgent necessity, or for demonstrated unfitness, or by reason of promotion to a higher grade, or assignment to foreign service or removal from the active list, a colonel assigned to command an Infantry regiment will not be relieved from that duty prior to the expiration of the prescribed two-year term.

3. That so much of Par. 48, Changes No. 129, Army Regulations as provides that "In transferring officers below the grade of brigadier general to duty . . . with tactical divisions serving within the continental limits of the United States, with the exception of Chief of Staff, they will be directed to report by War Department orders to the commanders thereof for assignment to duty with a specific branch or activity of the Army" be construed, in connection with assigning colonels by roster in command of Infantry regiments, to direct them to report by War Department orders "for assignment to duty with the Infantry as regimental commanders (or corresponding units)."

4. That, except for reasons set forth in Par. 2 above, the provisions of Par. 48, Changes No. 129, Army Regulations, with reference to the assignment and reassignment of officers by corps area and division commanders, be not construed as authorizing a colonel assigned to an Infantry regiment in the United States by roster, to be relieved from that duty prior to the expiration of the prescribed two-year tour.

5. That The Adjutant General of the Army maintain a "Command of Troops" roster wherein the names of all colonels of Infantry, and colonels on duty with the Infantry, except as indicated below, be arranged in regular order from the head of the list down in accordance with the amount of duty in actual command of regiments or higher tactical units with which each colonel has been credited, and arranged in such manner that the name of the colonel with the least amount of such actual command duty shall head the list:

(a) The names of colonels commissioned in other combatant branches and on duty with the Infantry will be included on the roster in the same manner as though commissioned in the Infantry.

(b) During the period that a colonel of Infantry is assigned to duty with another combatant branch, or is commanding a regiment in the United States, or is serving overseas, his name will be temporarily removed from the roster.

(c) The name of any colonel who is recommended and under consideration for elimination under the provisions of Sec. 24b, act of June 4, 1920, will be removed from operation of the roster during that period.

(d) The names of all colonels on the roster who are credited with no service in command of regiments or higher tactical units will be considered as number one, or at the head of that roster; similarly, the names of all colonels on the roster who are credited with an equal amount of such service will be considered as having the same relative position on that roster. Subject to the general provisions of Par. 1, above, the order in which officers will be assigned to the command of regiments in the United States will be based on availability and the recommendations of the Chief of Infantry.

Note—Regiment, as used herein, will be construed to mean a "regiment or corresponding unit."

In computing the tour of duty of a regimental commander, temporary absence therefrom during such tour aggregating three months or less, will be considered as duty in actual command of the organization. Service as an additional colonel with a regiment will not be construed as duty in command of the organization.

B. With reference to colonels of Infantry, or colonels on duty with the Infantry, serving overseas, the Secretary of War further directs as follows:

That all requests from such officers to have their normal foreign service tours extended be disappointed, except in special cases where approval of a request would result in the officer remaining in command of a regiment or corresponding unit, for a period not longer than two years during any tour in the Philippine Department or in China, and for a period not longer than three years in any other foreign garrison.

C. The Secretary of War further directs that the above plan become operative July 1, 1923; that, subject to the provisions of Par. A 2, above, colonels of Infantry, and colonels on duty with the Infantry who are commanding regiments or corresponding units in the United States on that date, be retained on that duty until the completion of their prescribed tours as regimental commanders; that colonels of Infantry and colonels on duty with the Infantry who are under orders on July 1, 1923, to assume command of regiments or corresponding units in the United States be considered as satisfying the requirements of having been assigned to such duty by roster as herein provided.

D. The Secretary of War further directs that the above provisions be not construed as prohibiting the assignment of any colonel of Infantry, or colonel on duty with Infantry, to duty with troops when such action is necessary to comply with the provisions of law.

E. The Secretary of War further directs that the provisions of Pars. A, B, C and D, above, apply, with necessary substitutions to colonels of Cavalry, Field Artillery, Coast Artillery and Engineers.

F. The Secretary of War further directs that chiefs of branches and commanders of corps areas, territorial departments and tactical divisions be informed of the above action, and that, at the proper time, The Adjutant General of the Army take the necessary steps to carry the plan into effect.

Navy Seaplane Crash Kills Two Flyers

A SEAPLANE, one of M.F.-Aeromarine type, piloted by Ens. Gordon Gunther, U.S.N.R., and in which Mach. Mate W. Hill, U.S.N., was a passenger, crashed into the Chesapeake bay near Hampton Roads, Va., April 23, 1923, killing both men. Ens. Gunther was a son of Mrs. G. A. Gunther of 619 Adams street, Jefferson City, Mo., and was at Hampton Roads Naval Base taking flying training. Mach. Mate Hill was on duty regularly at the Hampton Roads Naval Air Station and is survived by a wife, who resides at Ocean View, Va.

Marine Corps Complete Bombing Flight

FOUR Martin bomber bi-motor planes, the T-1, T-2, T-3 and T-4, all piloted by U.S. Marine Corps personnel, have completed the first organized unit of bomber planes in a transcontinental flight. The T-1 is piloted by Maj. R. S. Geiger, flight commander, and Capt. F. P. Mulcahy, with Sergt. W. L. Pounders, mechanic; the T-2 is piloted by Capt. A. H. Page and 2d Lt. G. B. Hall, with Sergt. H. L. Blackwell, mechanic; the T-3 is piloted by Capt. J. E. Davis and Capt. R. A. Presley, with Sergt. I. M. Karns, mechanic, and the T-4 is piloted by Capt. L. E. Woods and 1st Lt. W. S. Hallenberg, with Sergt. H. D. Alcorn, mechanic.

The group left San Diego, Calif., on April 19, to stop at Yuma and Tucson, Ariz.; El Paso, Marfa, Del Rio, San Antonio and Dallas, Texas; Tulsa, Okla.; Kansas City and St. Louis, Mo.; Indianapolis, Ind.; Dayton, Ohio; Moundsville; Anacostia, D.C., and they are expected to reach Washington, D.C., on May 1. After their arrival at Washington the unit will proceed to the Marine Corps flying field at Quantico, Va., which will be the home station of the group.

The flying of these planes from their former station in California to Quantico instead of shipping them by rail has saved the government approximately $20,000.

Howitzer Record 5th Art. Batteries

BATTERIES C and D, 5th Field Artillery, made an enviable record on the target range at Fort Bragg, N.C., recently, in preparing 240-mm. Howitzers for fire. While no competition was arranged and the batteries did not complete exactly the same number of preparatory details, time was kept by several officers of the Reserve Corps witnessing the work.

Starting from position in column on the roadside, Battery C was ready for firing its Howitzers in one hour thirty minutes, while Battery D was ready in one hour forty-two minutes. Comparison, however, cannot fairly be made between the two organizations, as C dug a pit for the platform and did not lay the ammunition rails, while D did not have to dig the four-cubic-yard pit, and laid the rails, had a projectile on the ammunition carrier and the lanyard affixed, ready to fire within a moment.

The results are considered remarkable in view of the general opinion of the Service that it takes anywhere from ten to twenty-four hours to place a 240-mm. Howitzer into position ready to fire. Previous to the above work Battery C had made a time record of four hours and twenty-five minutes, which was later reduced to three hours and thirty minutes by Battery D. The results achieved are considered very valuable by local officials.

Gen. Coe, U.S.A., Reviews Coast Artillery, N.Y.N.G.

MAJ. GEN. FRANK W. COE, Chief of Coast Artillery, U.S.A., made a special trip from Washington to New York City on April 23 to review the Coast Artillery Corps of the New York National Guard, which paraded as a brigade in the armory of the 13th Coast Defense Command in Brooklyn. The general was impressed with the varied and unusual exhibition and the enthusiasm and skill shown in giving it. There were about 2,400 officers and men in the review, which, it is believed, is the largest indoor military review yet given. An immense audience enjoyed the event, as evidenced by its hearty applause.

The organizations parading and giving exhibitions were the 9th Coast Defense Command of Manhattan, Col. John J. Byrne; the 212th Artillery (A.A.), old 12th N.Y., Col. Nelson B. Burr, and the 13th Coast Defense Command of Brooklyn, Col. Sydney Grant. The event was planned by Col. Grant, who had the hearty co-operation of Cols. Byrne and Burr, and others.

In addition to the military exhibitions there was an exciting relay race handicap of 880 yards, for teams of four men each from the 9th, 13th and 212th. This event was won by the team of the 212th, which received a handsome silver cup presented by the 13th, and each man was also presented with an appropriate medal.

Through the enterprise and ingenuity of Col. Washington I. Taylor, Coast Defense officer, N.Y.N.G., a novel exhibition was given of action by anti-aircraft guns of the 212th, against an enemy's airplane attempting to drop bombs on a city. For this event three anti-aircraft guns, two powerful searchlights and two wagons with instruments and personnel rolled into the armory and took position. Two of the trucks generated the motive power for the searchlights. The armory was darkened, and the beams of the searchlights, thrown skyward, disclosed an enemy's plane stealing over the city. Instantly the guns of the 212th began to bark, and shell bursts were seen about the plane. Finally some well-directed shots burst right on the plane, which, catching fire, dropped to the earth and was completely consumed.

For the brigade review Col. Grant acted as brigade commander, his regiment being in command of Lt. Col. B. H. Pendry, Maj. Thomas H. Jones, Coast Art., U.S.A., on duty with the National Guard Coast Artillery of New York City, acted as brigade adjutant, and in the most efficient manner. The ceremony was finely conducted and reflected the highest credit upon all concerned. As a special honor to the veterans of the 13th, the 13th Post of the American Legion, in command of Capt. Frank, and the Veteran Association of the 13th, under command of Maj. Kemp, paraded as a guard of honor to Gen. Coe during the review.

Other events on the long program were the following: Battalion drill by a war strength battalion of the 13th, under Maj. Robert E. Orr; regimental parade by the 9th Coast Defense Command, under Col. Byrne; coast defense exhibition by the 860th and the 357th Companies of the 13th, under Maj. E. J. Reilly. Among the many officers among the guests were Brig. Gens. William Weigel and Hugh A. Drum, Cols. B. W. Atkinson, A. H. Huguenot, C. Gerhardt and C. H. Hilton, Maj. G. W. Easterday, Maj. Robert C. Garrett and Capt. M. Reed, all of Regular Army. National Guard officers present as guests included Col. C. E. Warren, W. I. Taylor, A. G. Schermerhorn, Lt. Col. T. K. Fleming, Col. Rhinelanders Walde, O.R.C., also was present.

Military Committees in Boards of Trade

MAJ. PASCUAL LOPEZ, Inf., U.S.A., acting executive officer, Hqrs. 161st Inf. Brigade, 81st Div., at Raleigh, N.C., has been doing his best to have a military committee appointed in each chamber of Commerce of the state of North Carolina. Of the forty or fifty chambers in the state, about fourteen have already appointed a military committee, and the major estimates that at least seventy-five per cent. of them will soon have a similar committee. The secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of New Bern, informing the members of the military committee of their appointment, said:

"There are a great number of things which will come to your attention this year and I sincerely hope that you will do all in your power to make these activities materialize. The committee on which you have been selected to serve is of extreme importance in the life of this community and we absolutely need you.

THE Chamber of Commerce of Birmingham, Ala., has a committee on national defense whose seven members are prominent in civil affairs in the community, in the Organized Reserves, and one is the senior member of the National Guard in the city. The one Army idea is being exemplified in Birmingham to an extent equal to that found in any locality in the United States. The Regular Army officers on duty with the Reserve Corps, the R.O. T.C., the aviation, National Guard and the Navy recruiting officer have an understanding of mutual support in every activity undertaken by any one of their number. The National Guard officers and the Reservists manifest the same spirit of co-operation.

At the request of Lt. Col. L. O. Mathews, Q.M.C., and Capt. C. J. Hurt, U.S.A., stationed at Birmingham on duty with the Organized Reserves and National Guard Cavalry, respectively, the Birmingham Flying Club, an organization composed of patriotic citizens who are sponsors for the Aviation Squadron, N.G. A., at Roberts Field, the formation of a polo club has been undertaken. Purchase of horses and equipment will begin at once and the polo field at the aviation grounds is being graded.

THE Oakland Chamber of Commerce, in a recent resolution, endorsed the work of the R.O.T.C. in the Oakland High Schools, and urged the parents of the young men who are eligible to allow them to take this training.

Construction Going on at Fort Benning, Ga.

THE Quartermaster General has made arrangements for the construction, on or about July 1, of six double sets of officers' quarters at Fort Benning, which will represent an outlay of approximately $120,000. The housing needs at the Infantry School for both officers and men are urgent and, although additional quarters are being added from time to time, a large number of officers are still living in Columbus and a considerable number of the enlisted personnel are still being quartered in tents.

At the present time there are eighteen double sets in course of construction, and taking into consideration unexpected delays, such as the construction not coming up to the required specifications and the subsequent changes involved, it is not believed that they will be ready for occupancy until October.

It has recently been brought to the attention of the War Department that the wooden barracks which are being used to provide shelter for some of the enlisted personnel are rapidly deteriorating and constant repairing will have to be done in order to keep them in a sanitary condition. The more important work which is done at the Infantry School the year around warrants the construction of permanent barracks for the enlisted men, and although extensive efforts were made to acquaint Congress with these essential needs of the school, the appropriations did not include funds for the erection of permanent barracks. It has been suggested that in order to impress upon Congress the absolute construction needs at the Benning institution and to make them fully cognizant of the importance of the work being done at the school, a trip to Georgia where they could secure first-hand information would materially help in securing funds for this purpose.

The floor plans for the new hospital, which will be erected at Benning at a cost of $275,000, have been prepared by the office of the Surgeon General and will shortly be sent to the Quartermaster General of the Army for further drawings and specifications. The floor plans call for a building consisting of a basement and three stories, built of brick or stucco tile and semi-fireproof. The funds for this construction will be available July 1. Bids will be advertised for thirty days, but it is believed that it will be September before ground will be broken and the actual construction begins. It will be so built that additional wings can be added if desired. The completion of the hospital, which is still a matter of months, will fill an urgent need, as wooden barracks, which are a veritable fire-trap, are now being used for hospital purposes. The medical equipment which will be installed will all be of the most modern type, making the hospital when completed one of the most up-to-date institutions of its kind in the country.

Board of Chaplains to Meet at Washington

THE Secretary of War has directed that a board of chaplains of the Army of the United States meet in Washington on June 6, 7 and 8 for the purpose of formulating plans for the moral and religious development of the young men in the Army and those who will attend the various summer training camps all over the country. It is the earnest desire of the War Department that prominent men in the different denominations shall participate in the board's deliberations. The following is an extract from a letter written by the Secretary of War to the representatives of the various religious denominations:

"In keeping with the nation-wide sentiment for a quickened interest in the fundamentals of religion, a representative board of chaplains of the Army of the United States has been directed to meet at Washington, June 6-8, 1923, to devise ways for magnifying the place of religion in the Army, to consider plans for a more intensive program of moral training for soldiers, to develop community contacts and to recommend those activities which will strengthen the religious program for Regular Army posts and stations and safeguard young men who enter the various training camps.

"It is desired that a limited number of men prominent in their respective denominations and organizations, and who have shown special interest in the development of the religious life of the Army, shall meet with the board of officers to counsel on this very important matter."

Reduction in Number of Navy Officers

THERE is now in the Navy a shortage of 1,234 line officers. This is due largely to the separations from the Service that have taken place between June 30, 1922, and March 31, 1923. In that period 190 line officers and 95 staff officers have been separated from the Service.

Of these, 86 line officers and 25 staff officers were retired. Of the staff officers six were from the Medical Corps, one from the Dental Corps, eleven from the Supply Corps, one from the Chaplains Corps and six from the Construction Corps.

One hundred and two line officers resigned, as compared with sixty-one staff officers. The deaths among the line officers were fourteen, and among the staff officers seven. Only three line officers and one staff officer were dismissed, while one staff officer was discharged. The greatest loss to the Service was through resignations.

New Infantry Training Regulations About July 1

MAJ. GEN. G. C. RICKARDS, Chief of the Militia Bureau of the War Department, announced on April 14 that parts of the new Infantry Training Regulations (replacing, in effect, a large part of the subject matter at present contained in Infantry Drill Regulations) which are now about to go to the printer are expected to be available for distribution commencing July 1. The majority of the Infantry Training Regulations will be published probably during the coming summer and fall. Inasmuch as these regulations will not be available for use prior to the 1923 field training period, it is believed advisable to adhere to the existing Infantry Drill Regulations during this year's field training. It is expected that the new regulations will be available for the 1924 armory instruction.

In order to avoid confusion and to secure uniformity in instruction it is, therefore, requested that instructors be directed not to make use of advance copies of the new Infantry Training Regulations during the present armory season and 1923 field encampments where the organizations concerned have not had the opportunity to become familiar with same. This has special reference to changes in the mechanics of drill or similar questions.

At this date state representatives have been nominated everywhere excepting in Delaware and Mississippi.

The 1st Corps Area, Mr. Pike says, offers a model to the whole association in its early and complete organization. Under the direction of the corps area civilian aid, Pierpont L. Stackpole, it was the first to make full nomination of state civilian aids to fill out its list of country representatives and to report a full governing committee of thirty members in addition to the civilian aids ex officio.

Mr. Pike notes the various C.M.T. camps to be conducted, which have all been noted in this paper, and he also gives other information in the bulletin.

Secretary Denby Speaks for Navy

SECRETARY OF THE NAVY DENBY was entertained at luncheon at the Hotel Astor, New York city, on April 21 by the Government Club, and a ball followed the event. Mr. Denby during the evening spoke on the lessons learned from the recent maneuvers off Panama, and maintained that the battleship was still the backbone of the Navy. He advocated a Navy large enough to protect commerce, but not for aggression, and favored the development of our merchant marine.

Mr. Denby also described the new method of torpedo attack as demonstrated at the Panama maneuvers. He defended the bluejackets of the Navy against some unjust attacks regarding their behavior when ashore, written by a correspondent who admitted that he had not been in Panama and had not seen the things about which he wrote. Mr. Denby stated that during his entire stay at Panama he did not see a single drunken bluejacket. Other speakers included Rear Adm. Charles P. Plunkett and Capt. Ridley McLean, U.S.N., and Col. G. C. Reid, U.S.M.C.

Revising Regulations for Officers' Reserve Corps

THE General Staff committee engaged in the revision of the Officers' Reserve Corps Regulations is endeavoring to place in the regulations some provisions which will leave no doubt as to who will be given the preference in command in the event of war. As the regulations are now, this subject is not dealt with in any of the provisions. It is generally assumed that officers who have come into the corps and kept up with the work will be given the preference when the Organized Reserves are ordered into the field.

The revised regulations will set forth that officers who accept commissions in the Reserve Corps will be commissioned first after the Regular Army. In the event of a sudden expansion, Reserve officers, like Regular Army officers, are apt to be promoted above their peace time grades to fill vacancies in a large emergency force. The fact that any one in civil life may have had a distinguished service, or may be a graduate of a private military school, will not be of much avail until the officers in the Officers' Reserve Corps have all been assigned. The Reserve officers will be accepted upon their records kept in the War Department, while civilians with military experience and education will be required to take examinations if they are candidates for commissions in the event of war.

The way the Officers' Reserve Corps is filling up will naturally create a condition under which there will be very little demand for officers from civil life. The War Department will not be combing the country for men of military education and service as it did for the World War, for it will have a list of thousands of efficient officers available.

Organized Reserves Notes

THE initial meeting of the 343d Engineer Regiment, Organized Reserves, brought out more than fifty officers in Washington, D.C., April 23. Col. George R. Spaulding, U.S.A., on duty at the Army War College, made an address on military railroads and their use in time of war. Maj. Max C. Tyler, O.R.C., executive officer of the regiment was in charge of the assembly, assisted by Maj. John Scott, O.R.C., executive officer of the Washington headquarters of the Organized Reserves. A special meeting will be held May 3, at which time plans for permanent organization of the regiment will be perfected.

The District of Columbia department, R.O. A. U.S., held a special meeting April 25, when a most instructive lecture on war games was delivered by Col. Duncan Major, G.S., U.S.A. (War Plans Division, General Staff), former chief of staff of the 26th Division in the World War.

UNDER the auspices of the Army and Navy Service Department of the Jewish Welfare Board, headstones placed upon the graves of men of the Jewish faith in the National Cemetery, Cypress Hills, Brooklyn were unveiled Sunday, April 22, at two p.m., with appropriate ceremony. The county officers of the American Legion, and posts of the Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and Hebrew War Veterans were among those present.

Flight of TC-1 to Scott Field

THE TC-1, the newest and largest airship in the U.S. Army, which arrived at Scott Field, Belleville, Ill., April 9 from Akron, Ohio, marks an additional step in the development of this field as the chief lighter-than-air flying station. The TC-1 was flown to Scott Field from the air station of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., which built it, near Akron, Ohio, and made the distance of approximately 500 miles in 12 hours 50 minutes actual flying time.

The crew comprised four men from Scott Field—Lt. F. M. McKee in charge, Lt. Clyde A. Kunts and Sergts. Olin Brown and Harry Barnes. Lt. James C. Cluck of Washington, D.C., was along as official observer and a manufacturer's observer was aboard, also. The trip was uneventful, as flights under good atmospheric conditions go. Most of the time travel was about 1,200 to 1,500 feet above the earth and the average speed was 38 M.P.H., a headwind slowing the craft's progress. Sometime it would sway until the bag and car were far from vertical, and then swing to the opposite side.

The bag has a gas capacity of 206,000 cubic feet, and is 195.81 feet long, with a diameter of 44.54 feet. The car is painted khaki and is 40 feet long and carries two V-type eight-cylinder motors of 180 H.P. each, capable of producing a maximum speed of 60 miles per hour. Flight radius, at a cruising speed of 47 M.P.H. is 1,070 miles. There is a bomb carrying equipment, and a radio outfit will be installed. The TC-1 is not much larger than the D-2, which was erected at Scott Field, recently.

A RECORD for speed for dirigibles was made by the TC-1, April 20, when it made the distance from Scott Field to Chanute Field, Rantoul, Ill., in two hours. The distance by the ship is 148 miles, showing that the aircraft made almost 75 miles per hour. The rate of speed was due to a strong tail wind, which with the airships 200-horsepower propelled the craft straight to her goal. In the car of the ship was a crew composed of the following men: Capt. L. T. Miller and Lt. F. M. McKee, pilots; Col. T. A. Baldwin, Capt. L. F. Stone, Cadets E. M. Folger-songer, M. E. Wills, students; Sergt. A. Gamble, H. G. Barnes, F. Vidmar and William McEveras.

THE largest non-rigid airship in the world, the RN-1, has just been completed at the plant of Airships Incorporated at Hammondsport, N.Y., and delivered to the U.S. Army Air Service. The new ship, which possesses many novel devices, will be stationed at Scott Field, Belleville, Ill. The Army RN-1 is 262 feet in length and more than 48 feet in diameter. It can lift 21,000 pounds and maintain an altitude of 10,000 feet. It is primarily a fighting ship and is equipped with bombs and machine guns. A crew of twelve officers and enlisted men will operate the RN-1, which is provided with two 400-horsepower Liberty engines, which give it a speed of sixty miles an hour.

Navy Aviators Stop Once Only in 1,000-Mile Flight

LT. H. J. NORTON, U.S.M.C., and Lt. Comdr. C. P. Mason, U.S.N., who left Pensacola, Fla., April 19 at six a.m., in a Navy D-H. plane, arrived in Washington April 20, having completed over 1,000 miles of travel by air in ten hours' flying time, four hours of which was made through a rain storm extending over the southern section of the country.

The flight from Pensacola to Washington was made to facilitate the transaction of important Government business having to do with the training of naval aviators at the station in Pensacola.

Lt. Norton made but one stop, that at Columbia, S.C., for the purpose of refueling, with standard commercial gasoline, and continued the flight without experiencing any difficulty.

Four Die in Army Airplane Accident at McCook Field

CAPT. WALTER R. LAWSON, Tech. Sergt. Bidwell, Sergt. Wesley H. Rowland, A.S., U.S.A., and Hugh M. Smith, an employee of the Bureau of Standards in Washington, were killed, and Sergt. F. B. Shaw, A.S., U.S.A., was seriously injured when a large Martin bombing plane in which they were flying plunged into the Great Miami river near McCook Field, Dayton, Ohio, April 21.

The plane was en route to Langley Field, Hampton, Va., and was in charge of Capt. Lawson, who took off from McCook Field in the face of a very heavy head wind. The plane was seen suddenly to make a nose dive and landed in the middle of the river.

U.S. Warship Guns Not to Be Elevated

WITH approval of the President, announcement was made April 26 by the Navy Department that money appropriated for the elevation of guns will not be used for that purpose. Following is the statement:

"During the discussion at the last Congress of the proposal to appropriate $6,500,000 for elevating the guns of thirteen battleships of the United States Fleet certain statements were made in regard to the disparity between the ranges of guns of the ships of the British fleet and those of the fleet of the United States. These statements were made in absolute good faith, but were shown by later reports from the government of Great Britain to have been exaggerated. While the disparity does exist, it is not so great as was then supposed.

"Upon the representations of the Navy Department, Congress appropriated the sum asked for. In view of the discrepancy between the statements of the Department and actual conditions, the Department has determined not to employ the money appropriated for the purpose of increasing the elevation of the guns of the American Fleet, until further directed to do so by Congress.

"This course has the President's approval."

Army Notes

FOR more than a year, the Cavalry Board has been conducting tests on a cooking outfit suitable to Cavalry requirements. The weight of the one now being used is approximately 234 pounds, about 34 pounds more than it should be. The board has designed one which weighs, including the pack saddle, 199 pounds. A thorough test will be made, as soon as practicable, of this new type which is believed will stand up under the severe tests which will be imposed upon it.

AT Clark Field, Pampanga, P.I., construction of a post exchange and recreation hall is underway. Need of this building has long been realized, but circumstances have prevented actual accomplishment. Since the arrival of the Air Service in the islands, construction of hangars and other essential buildings for housing of troops has taken all their time. When completed the buildings will do much towards relieving the monotony of post life.

WITH some 300 stallions now in use by the Remount Service, in line with the system of breeding adopted by the Quartermaster Corps, it is inevitable that there will be some colts unsuitable in conformation, disposition, or constitution. To remedy this, the Quartermaster General has directed each officer responsible for horse breeding in his zone to make every effort to ascertain the type and kind of colts now being bred. These orders also provide for inspection of the localities in which horse breeding is being carried on.

THE Air Service has requested authority from The Adjutant General of the Army to open a recruiting campaign about May 1. The next few months will see the graduation from the various courses at the Air Service Technical School, Rantoul, Ill., of several hundred students, who upon the completion of their respective courses will be assigned to the different units. If given authority the Air Service hopes to add about 200 recruits to its ranks, all of which will be obtained in the vicinity of Chanute Field.

THE Reserve officers of the 313th Field Artillery held an interesting April assembly in Washington, D.C., the speaker of the evening being Capt. Steele Wotkins, commander of Battery A, 16th Field Art., U.S.A., at Fort Myer, who fully explained the many improvements that have been made in the Field Artillery since the World War. The Reserve officers then engaged in a map problem, which was explained by Col. Leroy T. Herron, commanding officer of the 313th Field Artillery, assisted by Capt. Wotkins and Maj. John Scott, U.S.A. At the conclusion of the assembly, Capt. Wotkins extended a cordial invitation on behalf of Maj. C. P. George, commanding the battalion of the 16th at Fort Myer, and of the officers of the post, to visit the station at any time.

THE building that housed the post exchange stocks and office at Schofield Barracks, H.T., was almost entirely destroyed by a fire on March 26. Due to the prompt action of the Schofield fire department the flames were prevented from spreading to adjoining buildings. Insurance of $50,000 was carried, which it is believed will practically cover the loss. The cause of the fire is unknown.

RETURNING from his recent trip to Camp Knox, Ky., Brig. Gen. Dwight E. Aultman, who will be camp commander, was enthusiastic over the coming summer activities, and the excellent shape in which he found buildings and utilities at Knox. The range is in excellent condition and the detail from the 10th Infantry that has been reconditioning the range already has thirty targets erected. The following officers will be assigned to administrative duty at Knox during the summer: Brig. Gen. Dwight E. Aultman, camp commander; Lt. Col. J. D. Hey-singer, camp surgeon; Capt. F. U. McCoskie, executive officer; 1st Lt. J. H. Crozier, plans and training officer; 1st Lt. W. B. Sharp, adjutant; 1st Lt. W. T. Johnson, assistant adjutant; 2d Lt. R. H. Tripp, exchange officer.

AFTER carefully considering a number of applications for the location of the first international glider contest, which will be held in the United States between July 10 and Aug. 15, the city of Oakland, Calif., has been awarded the meet providing the city will increase its offer of $5,000 to $10,000, which is to be set aside as prize money for the winning contestants. In addition to this, Capt. E. V. Rickenbacker has donated a handsome trophy for the contest. The appearance of British, French and German glider contestants in the meet adds an international aspect to the affair.

SPECIAL orders from the War Department relating to officer personnel issued this week and which appear in this issue include quite a number of details to the General Staff and to foreign service.

War Dept. Policy as to Phil. Scouts

THE Secretary of War, before leaving on his trip to the west coast, approved the Judge Advocate General's opinion on the retired Philippine Scout legislation which has been enacted by Congress. It is a fifteen-page opinion, in which all the laws creating the Philippine Scouts and affecting that organization were reviewed and construed. Among the most important provisions of law that were considered were Sec. 127a, amended National Defense act, the Service Pay act of June 10, 1922, Sec. 17, and provisions of the Army Appropriation act of June 30, 1922.

The Adjutant General's Department is now computing the service of the retired Philippine Scouts under the opinion and will shortly send out notice to the officers affected. In effect, Philippine Scout officers with active commissioned service equal to the lowest major on the promotion list will be promoted on the retired list. This is further limited by the Comptroller General's decision which eliminates service with the R.O.T.C. from credit on the promotion list. The following are the conclusions of the opinion:

The question presented in the paper in reference is accordingly answered to the effect that the advancement on the retired list of officers of Philippine Scouts retired prior to June 4, 1920, but who rendered active service subsequent to retirement, as retired officers, is authorized by law, subject to the following conditions:

(a) No officers of Philippine Scouts retired prior to June 4, 1920, whose constructive terminal date of active service precedes July 1, 1920, is entitled to advancement on the retired list.

(b) The constructive terminal date of a retired officer's active service is ascertained by adding to the date of his retirement the period of time spent by him on active duty as an officer subsequent to retirement.

(c) For the purpose here in question, the date upon which an officer of Philippine Scouts vacated his office is to be regarded as the date of his retirement in case of any such officer who vacated his office by discharge or resignation, but who was subsequently placed upon the retired list under authority of the second and third provisions of Sec. 26 of the act of June 3, 1916. (39 Stat. 185).

(d) In computing, for the purpose here in question, active service rendered before and after retirement, only service rendered as an officer may be considered.

(e) In computing, for the purpose here in question, active service rendered subsequent to retirement, service of the kind excluded by the Comptroller General in his decision of Aug. 11, 1922 (2 Comp. Gen. 107), reaffirmed on Nov. 29, 1922, is to be excluded from consideration; as is also all active service rendered since June 9, 1922, while on the retired list.

(f) Subject to the limitations expressed in Paragraphs (c), (d) and (e), supra, the aggregate length of active service as an officer rendered before and after retirement by an officer of Philippine Scouts retired prior to June 4, 1920, but whose constructive terminal date of active service as an officer falls on or after July 1, 1920, compared with the total length of active commissioned service of the officers whose names were borne on the promotion list on Jan. 1, 1923, serves to determine, for the purpose here in question, the position which that officer would have been entitled to occupy on the promotion list on Jan. 1, 1923, had he then been on the active list with the same aggregate length of active service as an officer.

(g) The grade the officer on the active list next below the position determined as indicated in the preceding item was normally entitled to occupy on Jan. 1, 1923, indicates the grade the officer in question is entitled to occupy on the retired list, and indicates the grade to which he is entitled to be advanced on the retired list as of Jan. 1, 1923, if he does not already occupy that grade or a superior grade.

National Guard Notes

BRIG. GEN. J. W. LESTER, commanding the National Guard of New York, reviewed the 102d Engineers, N.Y. N.G., Col. F. E. Humphries, in its armory in New York city April 23, and witnessed an interesting display. In addition to the review there were a number of practical exhibitions of various phases of engineering, including demolition and bridge work.

ADJT. GEN. GEORGE A. WHITE of Oregon in a recent communication sent to Capt. J. E. Shearer, Co. K, 102d Inf., of that state, regarding an unusual record of drill attendance says: "During the month of March, the records show that your company had an attendance of 100 per cent. The exact figure in fact was 107.01 per cent. This is a brand new record upon which I wish to congratulate you and your officers and men. It has set a mark that will be difficult for anyone to ever pass in the matter of drill attendance."

MAJ. GEN. R. L. BULLARD, U.S.A., will review the 71st Infantry, N.Y. N.G., Col. J. H. Wells, in its armory in New York city on the night of May 2.

Promotions and Retirements

COL. EDWARD ANDERSON, Cav., U.S.A., is retired from active service, to take effect April 28, 1923, upon his own application after more than 35 years' service. Col. Anderson, who is a graduate of the U.S.M.A., class of 1888, when he was assigned to the 15th Infantry, was born in Virginia May 31, 1864. He was transferred to the 1st Cavalry, Feb. 11, 1889, and subsequently served with the 7th, 12th, 16th and 5th Cavalry. During the war with Spain he served as captain and A.A.G. of Volunteers, and as a temporary brigadier general during the World War. He is an honor graduate of the Infantry and Cavalry School, and a graduate of the Army War College. Col. Anderson's first service after graduating from West Point was on the frontier in Dakota and Montana. He participated with the 1st Cavalry in the Pine Ridge campaign against the Sioux Indians in 1891, and during the war with Spain he served in the Cuban campaign on the staff of Gen. Ludlow and participated in the battle of El Caney. He also served under Gen. Miles in Porto Rico. Among other duties he was an instructor of tactics at West Point, and served in the Philippines and on the Texas border during the Mexican troubles, 1914-1917. He was in command of an expedition of five troops of the 12th Cavalry which crossed into Mexico in June, 1916. He was in command of the 90th Division at Camp Wheeler, Ga., for some two months in 1918, and of Camp Pike, Ark., and of the 162d Depot Brigade there November, 1918, to March 1, 1919. He was last on duty with the Organized Reserves of Portland, Ore.

FIRST LT. CHARLES T. BURK, Q.M. Corps, U.S.A., was retired from active service April 17, 1923, for disability incident thereto. He was born in Indiana Sept. 2, 1878, and first entered the Regular Army as a private in the 11th Infantry, Sept. 19, 1911. He later served as corporal, sergeant and technical sergeant in the Q.M. MASTER SERGT. JOSEPH LARACY, U.S.A., on duty with the R.O.T.C. He first enlisted in Troop F, 3d Cav., on March 21, 1890. Since Jan. 3, 1908, his service has been continuously in the Engineers in which he has served in every enlisted grade from private to master sergeant. During the World War he was commissioned a temporary second lieutenant, first lieutenant and captain of Engineers, in which latter grade he was discharged Oct. 30, 1919. His assignment of California Institute of Technology dates from September, 1920. "Sergt. Laracy's entire service, both in peace and war," says Lt. Harris Kramer, U.S.A., professor of M.S. and T., has been characterized by energetic and capable performance of duty, a high degree of technical skill and ability, and unwavering loyalty to his associates and to his superiors. During the Philippine Insurrection he participated in numerous engagements and skirmishes as a member of Gen. Lawton and Young's expedition through Luzon. He served creditably in the Mexican campaign, 1915 to 1917. In the World War he saw service overseas with the 7th Engineers, 5th Division, participating in operations in the San Die salient and in the St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne offensives. For his fearless leadership, personal valor, and exceptional initiative in the latter operation, Capt. Laracy was officially cited for gallantry in action. Obituaries

BALDWIN.—Maj. Gen. Frank D. Baldwin, U.S.A., retired, died at Denver, Colo., April 23, 1923. He had an excellent record of service, and had the unusual distinction of having received two Congressional Medals of Honor for distinguished gallantry. Gen. Baldwin was born in Manchester, Mich., June 26, 1842. He entered the Volunteer service as second lieutenant in the Michigan Horse Guards in September, 1861, and served throughout the Civil War, advancing during the same to the grade of lieutenant colonel. He was appointed in the Regular Service as second lieutenant, 19th Inf., Feb. 2, 1866, and advanced through all the grades of the line of the Army to major general, U.S.A. He served as an officer in the 37th, 5th, 3d, 4th, 1st and 27th Infantry. During the Civil War his service was with the 19th Michigan Regiment of Infantry. He participated in Sherman's entire march to the sea, being in the advance during the greater part of the same, and took part in all the numerous engagements and conflicts during that campaign. He was awarded a medal of honor for "distinguished bravery in the battle of Beach Tree Creek, Ga., July 20, 1864, while serving as captain, 19th Michigan Infantry." His service in the Regular Army was always most active. Up to the time of the Spanish-American War he had been entirely on the plains in the West. Most of his service before 1898 was in the 5th Infantry, which, under the command of Gen. Miles, did such excellent work against the Indians in Texas and Montana. During the Indian campaigns in the West Gen. Baldwin was awarded a second Medal of Honor for most distinguished gallantry in action against Indians near McLelland Creek, Tex., Nov. 8, 1874, and was breveted twice. In 1894 he took charge of the Indian agency at Anadarko, where he remained until the Spanish-American War in 1898. During his tour at that point, the Indians were greatly benefited by his kind and just treatment.

His friends in and about Anadarko appreciated the value of this officer's work at the agency. Gen. Baldwin took a most active part in the Spanish-American War, serving in Cuba and the Philippine Islands during the insurrection and campaigns against Moro tribes in the Island of Mindanao, P.I. The salient features of his services in the Philippine Islands are summed up in two most prominent and effective undertakings. As lieutenant colonel of the 4th Infantry he organized a command of several hundred men and after a relentless and difficult pursuit of several months compelled Lt. Gen. Trias, second in command to Aguinaldo, to surrender to him with his entire force and several thousand rifles. This surrender was most opportune and had great and lasting effect upon the natives of the islands. He was highly commended by Gen. MacArthur in an official report for his work in the Philippines, and also received the thanks of President Roosevelt. Gen. Baldwin was retired from active service June 26, 1906, on account of the age limit. From 1917 to 1919 he served as The Adjutant General, state of Colorado.

Interment took place at Evergreen Cemetery, El Paso, March 28, 1923, after services at their home on Hastings street."

Wells, U.S.N., for many years rector of St. Stephen's Church, Providence, R.I., died April 17, 1923, at his home, 31 Benvolent street, that city. Death followed several years of failing health. Dr. Fiske had the unusual record of having twice declined high honors from his church. He was elected Bishop of Fond-du-lac, Wis., and in 1904 chosen Bishop Coadjutor of Springfield, Ill. Both elections he refused, more content to pursue his work as rector of St. Stephen's. After he had completed thirty years with the parish Dr. Fiske's health began to weaken and Sept. 30, 1918, he resigned his post, to become effective Dec. 1 of the same year, and rounding out exactly thirty-four years of service upon his retirement as rector. He entered the Air Service of the Regular Army July 1, 1920, as a first lieutenant. He went overseas with the Rainbow Division. In February, 1918, he was detailed to the Air Service and served as operations officer and aerial observer until November, 1918. He received the D.S.C. for repeated acts of heroism in action near St. Mihiel France, from July 10 to Sept. 13, 1918. The citation says: "He showed unusual courage in a reconnaissance flight over the enemy lines, when he continued altitude and was repeatedly fired on by anti-aircraft and machine guns. Military and Naval Clubs and Societies

SOCIETY OF ARMY OF SANTIAGO DE CUBA.

The Society of the Army of Santiago de Cuba observed the twenty-fifth anniversary of the declaration of war with Spain by a reunion and dinner at the Army and Navy Club, Washington, D.C., April 21, 1923. Sixty life members responded as they were mustered as of the grades held between June 14 and July 17, 1898; a democratizing plan, though none appeared as of the grades in the "Old West Point" system—"Things," "Reptiles," "Beasts" and "Fishes" preceding that of "New Cadets." According to the roll call, one colonel, two lieutenant colonels, four majors, twelve captains, ten first lieutenants, nine second lieutenants and twenty enlisted men participated. In fact, there were present seven major generals, seven brigadier generals, sixteen colonels, four lieutenant colonels, five majors, two captains and nineteen just plain heroes without whom the country to-day might not have been a world power. Those demoted for the time being accepted the situation gracefully and all were comrades.

Gen. Ireland, president of the society, presided, with Gen. McClelland toastmaster. Interesting addresses were made by Gen. Hines, Humphrey, Harries and Brett, and Col. Webb C. Hayes.

Mr. Edwin Emerson, of the 1st U.S. Volunteer Cavalry (Rough Riders), entertained the guests with many photographs (thrown on the screen) of scenes during the campaign. Sparkling water sustained the spirits of all present until after midnight. Gen. Wells, Colo. Pope and Smedberg composed the committee of arrangements, assisted by Col. C. A. Williams, secretary of the society.

U.S. ARMY SQUARE CLUB OF NEW YORK.

The United States Army Square Club of New York, affiliated with the National League of Masonic Clubs, will hold its next meeting at the Y.M.C.A., Governors Island, N.Y., May 1 at 8 p.m., and will be glad to entertain any of its Masonic brethren at that time. The Club was founded by the Army Music School in 1920.

Col. Julius A. Penn, U.S.A., is president, Wm. Ofr. H. E. Hill is secretary, and Mr. Sgt. G. B. Crommelin, U.S.A., treasurer. Chaplain Earl H. Weed, U.S.A., is chaplain of the Club, which now has 140 members, privates to generals, with an average monthly waiting list of from twenty to forty. All members of the United States Army are eligible, as are those holding an honorable discharge. The Club has made wonderful progress among the fraternity in New York city.

U.S.M.C. VETERANS.

The first general meeting of U.S. Marine Corps veterans will be held in New York city, June 6, when the Marine Corps Veterans Association have their first national caucus. This organization is attempting to bring together as many as possible of the 150,000 men who have served in the Marine Corps. Maj. Sydney W. Brewster, national commandant, announces that Merle MacAlister has been unanimously elected caucus chairman by the national executive committee, and pre-convention headquarters have been established at the Hotel Marie Antoinette.

M.O.L.L.U.S.

The thirty-eighth annual meeting of the Michigan Commandery, M.O.L.L.U.S., will be held May 3 at Detroit for election of officers. The banquet will take place at the Detroit Club at 7 o'clock sharp. An interesting address by Hon. Charles B. Warren, late U.S. Minister to Japan, is anticipated. Other prominent speakers will address the meeting.

The annual meeting of the District of Columbia Commandery, M.O.L.L.U.S., will be held at the New Willard, May 2. After the business meeting the evening will be devoted to music and song, supported by the Marine band orchestra. Refreshments will be served. Each companion is privileged to invite women guests.

NEW YORK COUNCIL NO. 2, WARRANT OFFICERS' ASSOCIATION.

In connection with a previous notice of the observation of Organization Day on June 4 by warrant officers, a recent circular issued by the New York Council No. 2, Warrant Officers Association, U.S.A., states that a reception, dinner and dance will be held at the Hotel Pennsylvania, New York city, on June 4, 1923. Among the invited guests are Maj. Gen. Bullard, U.S.A.; Brig. Gen. Reilly, O.R.O., president of the Reserve Officers' Association; Col. Murray, U.S.A., chief of staff, 2d Corps Area; the adjutants and other staff officers.

The circular further states: "The object of celebrating this day is not essentially for the purpose of amusement. The basic purpose is to advertise the rank of warrant officer in a fitting manner. While it is undoubtedly true that our individual superiors have a knowledge of our capabilities, yet it is unquestionable that the directive authorities have not yet gotten the habit of considering us as a group of officers instead of as individuals. The tendency of the efforts which this Council is making to improve the rank is along lines corrective of this, and it appears that there is no better way of impressing Corps Area Headquarters with our capabilities as former non-commissioned staff officers, staff officers and field officers than by bringing them into direct contact with us as a body."

The committee consists of Adam Schellhas, chairman; George Pigott, Frank Needham, all of Governors Island; Robert H. Archer, Fort Hamilton, N.Y.; G. L. O'Brien, Army Base, Brooklyn; and John L. Morgan, Fort Totten, N.Y.

A Second Limitation Conference?

THE continued reaction against high taxes and badly balanced budgets in all countries appears to have established a distinctly favorable trend towards a second Limitation of Armaments Conference with the object of halting the competition already begun in auxiliary tonnage.

The keynote was sounded by Senator Borah during the last session of Congress. His proposals had a perfectly sound basis from the American viewpoint. We had made stupendous sacrifices of relative sea power and funds in order to gain an international limitation of capital ship tonnage, which proved in reality a mock limitation from the nullifying omission of other naval types from the agreements.

If our theoretical ratio of sea strength was to be preserved in the face of new Japanese and French auxiliary programs a new outlay of some $300,000,000 was necessary. The only alternative was a correction of the basic defect in the Naval Treaty by extending limitation to auxiliary types through a second conference.

Diplomacy and Business

MANY well informed persons believed that the Administrations response to Mr. Borah's suggestions was needlessly cold. But it should be remembered that diplomatic procedure parallels business negotiations. He who is too eager and precipitate pays the price in the final reckoning. That was one reason for our diplomatic defeat in the first conference; we could not afford to repeat it. Before taking any constructive step towards a new conference it was the part of wisdom to assume "watchful waiting" for foreign echoes. They have come; but it is yet too early to estimate their sincerity. The depths of local politics sometimes even exceeds those of the international game.

New Era of Competition

IN February a member of the Japanese Diet drew attention to the excessive number of combatant auxiliaries laid down in Japanese shipyards, or projected, since the Washington Conference and expressed the fear that a new era of competition was imminent. Premier Kato replied: "If competition in building of warships were found to be starting again I think that another naval conference would be held." Again, in March, the Premier took a similar opportunity to repeat the same suggestion.

In April, a leading member of the French Chamber of Deputies made the startling proposal, which has been already emphasized in these columns, that a new conference be called to consider the complete scrapping of all except an international naval force, to which each of the great naval powers was to contribute a share of ships. It may be inferred that a conference for the less radical proposal to limit auxiliary tonnage would not be unacceptable in France.

The British reaction has not been so forward, yet that it is favorable to another conference is nevertheless clear from the attitude of many special press correspondents, of whom a large number are regularly engaged in systematized propaganda. The central idea which they have put out is that, of course, Britain would be glad to join in perfecting the Naval Treaty by extending the limitation to auxiliary ships, but that the recently announced programs of Japan and France gave unfortunately clear evidence of the resolution of those two countries to force a new competition in building.

Financial Stress vs. National Security

THE financial straits of Italy may be taken for granted as a compelling influence towards an eager acceptance of any further limitation. In fact, the fundamental conditions confronting the other countries mentioned offer a sounder source for deduction than the stray bits of evidence noted above. Fiscal embarrassments that will bear no compromise are a cardinal underlying factor in the attitude of them all, especially with France and Japan. The continuing burdens of excessive taxation are causing widespread unrest of the gravest moment.

Britain's situation is peculiar. The instinctive reliance of her people upon sea power and relative national richness will probably induce them to bear any expense to keep up a peerless navy, so that the financial element in her case is not so compelling as with the other great powers. But the stupendous growth of air power on the continent of Europe places British sea communications in great jeopardy at their most vital point—the main home focus. The air menace simply must be met, and the most practicable means of financing the great outlay required is through reduction in naval expenditures. If other nations can be induced to join in corresponding reductions, the pre-eminence of British sea power will not be impaired. Quite the contrary, it will be enhanced by reason of the sea power latent in the huge British merchant marine.

The greater the scale of general reduction of naval armament by international agreement, the greater the relative power of Britain on the sea, so long as a preponderant merchant marine is maintained.

These are the fundamental conditions, of which the parliamentary and press straws noted in the beginning of this article are but symptoms. The trend is undoubtedly towards another conference. If it comes, let us hope that diplomacy, our first line of defense, will not fail us again.

Need of Justice in Selecting Line Officers, U.S.N.

THE approach of the time when another board must meet for the selection of line officers of the Navy for promotion is a reminder of the pending legislation on this subject in both Houses of Congress. It is evident that the national legislature would renew consideration of such a matter only in response to strongly held views by a considerable number of officers, and that such an influence will tend to jeopardize the system of selection so long as it is not brought more in harmony with basic principles of justice.

We should remember the fate of the previous selective system, which, through the annual "plucking" out of a number of officers who felt themselves victims of injustice, gradually created a large "bloc" of influential opponents to the system and ultimately brought about its collapse.

Justice in Fundamentals

NO system can stand for long when, through law or administrative act, it violates certain fundamentals of justice, as justice has come to be accepted by mankind at large. Men will fight it to-day just as persistently as men fought for the same principles throughout past centuries. And in the end they will win from the sheer weight of public opinion, just as in the end they have done in the past. That is the greatest danger to the present system of selection, in which lies the germ of a great force for naval efficiency.

Undoubtedly Service opinion, as probably manifested by the pending legislation, is against the consideration of any matter not forming a part of an officer's written record, with the possible exception of special cases determined by the vote of a large majority of the board. This would remove the suspicion of "star chamber" proceedings so contrary to the rudiments of fairness. It makes very little difference whether boards actually take undue advantage of this loophole to the detriment of any officer; what counts in jeopardizing the stability of the selective system is the fact that such an opportunity exists.

Blocs on Boards

ANOTHER important feature of the proposed legislation, which seems likely to have been inspired from within the Service, is a prohibition against proportionately large "blocs" of officers serving on successive boards. Each board in a measure reviews the cases of officers passed over by preceding boards. There is a presumption of prejudice whenever the reviewers pass upon their own previous action. This should be eliminated, especially when we consider that even the most honest of human opinions are necessarily subject to great variation, and that the conditions of naval service prevent any member of a board from having intimate personal knowledge of the efficiency of more than a relatively few of those eligible for selection.

There are other serious objections to the present methods which should be changed if the benefits of selection are to be gained without a greater loss in impaired Service morale.

A board of line officers cannot possibly be competent to interpret an officer's physical record. That should be done only by medical officers acting in conjunction with the selection board, otherwise supposed physical defects should not enter into the selection.

Opportunity for Defense

OFFICERS who have been, or who are about to be, passed over should be acquainted with the reasons which underlie the adverse action, and be given opportunity to present an argument in their own behalf in specific reply to such reasons.

Regardless of the theory that being passed over is not a punishment, its effects are more drastic than the punishment assigned to officers by ninety-nine courts-martial out of a hundred. Adequate opportunity for defense against such injury is a matter of mere elemental justice.

MAKING ADJUTANT GENERAL OF NEW YORK A COMMANDING GENERAL.

TO THE EDITOR:

I WAS most interested in your article in the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL of April 7, headed "Seeking to Destroy New York Naval Militia," with the sentiments of which I am in most hearty accord.

I would like to call your attention to what I consider an equally dangerous law put on the statute books during Governor Whitman's administration, and which I believe has not been repealed. The law to which I refer is the one that gives the Governor the power to appoint The Adjutant General to the position of commanding officer of the National Guard. According to our Constitution and laws, The Adjutant General is not a member of the National Guard and is purely a personal appointment of the Governor under the Constitution, requiring no qualifications as to eligibility.

In my opinion, and in the opinion of every National Guard officer with whom I have spoken on the subject, this law should be repealed. If I may quote from your article, "it is a vicious measure in as much as it opens a clear field to the appointment of an inexperienced and incompetent officer to the important office of commander of the [Naval Militia]" National Guard.

FRANCIS G. LANDON, ex-Major.

CHANGING ARMY UNIFORM.

TO THE EDITOR:

I am in favor: 1. Of changing the present field uniform. Breeches and long trousers, two coats, one with present standing collar and one with rolled collar modeled largely on the present English coat.

2. Blouse with high collar to be worn in cold weather, low collar in warm weather; in tropical countries rolled collar continuous wear; in temperate countries winter uniform high collar, summer uniform rolled collar; cold climates high collar.

3. Strongly in favor of full dress uniform, preferably blue in color, for use on full dress occasions with sufficient gold braid, etc., to favorably compare, not compete, with officials of other nations that might be present. One to two years' time should be more than sufficient to effect the change without causing financial difficulty to any officer.

I am also in favor, in National Guard organizations, of their being permitted to have a distinctive dress uniform. It seems to me a hardship for Regular Army officers after a day's work and with opportunity for a little rest and recreation to be obliged to wear the same uniform, except possibly of a later vintage, than that they have been wearing throughout the day. I should also be in favor, later on, of a mess coat, although I believe that the blouse with the rolled collar, if authorized, could take the place of such a coat.

Gen. F. W. Ward Reviews 258th Field Art., N.Y.N.G.

BRIG. GEN. FRANKLIN W. WARD, commanding the 53d Infantry Brigade, N.Y.N.G., reviewed the 258th Field Artillery (8th N.Y.), Col. Elmore F. Austin, in a very large audience being present and the regiment making a fine display. Gen. Ward had the honor of presenting Col. Austin with the War Department D.S.M. for service in battle during the World War.

The official citation says:
Elmore F. Austin, colonel, Coast Artillery Officers' Reserve Corps, then colonel, Coast Art. Corps, U.S. Army. For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services. He served as assistant to, and at intervals as, the coast defense commander, Coast Defenses of Eastern New York, from August to December, 1917; in command of the 57th Regiment (6th motorized) from December, 1917, until Oct. 16, 1918, taking part in the St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne offensives; and then in command of replacement battalion, 1st Army Art., from Oct. 17 to Nov. 17, 1918. He displayed at all times sound judgment, great energy and a thorough knowledge of his duties, all of which were manifested in the high degree of efficiency attained by his regiment in organization, training and active operations of his regiment.

Col. Austin has been an active member of the National Guard for over thirty-three years, entering it as a private in Co. B, 71st Infantry, in November, 1887. He has proven a most energetic, highly efficient and popular officer, holding the esteem and respect of his officers and men. Aside from serving in the World War, he served in the campaign in Cuba in 1898 and on other active duty with the 71st and 8th. The present magnificent armory the 258th now occupies is a product of Col. Austin's genius.

Following the review under Col. Austin, Battery A was presented with the Wamaker Trophy for recruiting the largest number of men. The Medical detachment was presented with the Eugene Kelly Austin Trophy for athletics.

The regiment gave an exhibition in close-order drill under Lt. Col. Paul Loeser, which was followed by evening parade under Col. Austin.

In the artillery drill by crews from Batteries B, D, E and F and Headquarters Battery under command of Capt. Thomas J. Byrnes the visitors were given an opportunity to see exactly how a battery of 155-mm. (G.P.F.) guns is brought into action and fired. Despite their great weight, the guns were handled with the greatest of ease. All the exhibitions were of very high order, and Gen. Ward stated that they were among the best he had ever seen, and that they demonstrated the high efficiency the regiment had reached.

Previous to the review Gen. Ward was entertained by the officers at dinner, at which he complimented the good work of Col. Austin, and he also spoke on national defense. Col. Raymond Sheldon, U.S.A., made remarks on the increased responsibilities of the National Guard. Col. Austin and Lt. Col. Loeser also spoke.

The annual indoor track and field meet of the 258th Field Artillery, N.Y.N.G., will be held at the armory, Jerome avenue and Kingsbridge road, on Saturday evening, April 28. As an added attraction there will be a concert by Keith's Boys' Band. The games start at 8.30 o'clock.

Midshipmen's Practice Cruise Begins June 9

THE Navy Department has approved the recommendations of the commander-in-chief of the U.S. Fleet for the practice cruise of the midshipmen. As has been previously stated, the practice squadron will consist of the Arkansas (flagship), Florida, Delaware and North Dakota.

The itinerary is based on a cruising speed of ten knots, starting from Annapolis June 9 and passing around the north of Scotland, both in going to and returning from Copenhagen. The target practice will be held on the southern drill grounds after the arrival at Hampton Roads on the return voyage on Aug. 18. The practice squadron will return to Annapolis not earlier than the afternoon than a day previous to Aug. 20, which is set for disembarkation.

In accordance with the usual custom, and if it is desired by the Superintendent of the Naval Academy, arrangements will be made for the transportation for the football team from Hampton Roads upon the arrival of the squadron there on Aug. 18.

After the midshipmen have disembarked from the squadron it will proceed to Norfolk to participate in the twenty-fourth national encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars on Aug. 30 and 31.

The Bureau of Construction and Repair is now manufacturing at the Norfolk Navy Yard and will have ready by May 25, 850 lockers to be placed on the North Dakota, Delaware, Arkansas and Florida for use of midshipmen. The complete itinerary of the cruise follows:

Senators and Congressmen on Army Transport Cruise

THE U.S.A.T. Grant, with a Congressional party aboard and headed by the Secretary of War, left Brooklyn, N.Y., on April 27 via the Panama Canal for the west coast and Asiatic points. The Grant will stop at Porto Rico, Panama, San Diego, Los Angeles and San Francisco on the trip to the coast, and on arrival at San Francisco, May 24, those who wish to go to Alaska will transfer to the Cambrai as the Grant sails from here for Hawaii and the Philippines.

The U.S.A.T. Cambrai sails from San Francisco on May 27 and will stop at Seattle, Fort Seward and Seward on the trip to the North. On the return journey the transport will make a brief stop at Seattle and will arrive back in San Francisco on June 22.

In addition to the Congressional party, the Grant will carry approximately 1,000 enlisted men of the Army, who have been ordered to duty in Hawaii and the Philippine Islands. On April 24 word was received by the War Department that fifty enlisted men now awaiting at Fort Howard, Md., to embark on the Grant would not sail on the transport. A case of measles has been detected by the medical officer and the entire contingent of fifty men has been quarantined for two weeks. It will be a great disappointment to most of these men, as the majority of them have been waiting for some time for their turn at foreign service.

The Secretary of War will only go as far as Seattle. Following is the schedule of the transports and the list of the Congressional party:

New York to Alaska—Senators A. A. Jones and wife; F. E. Warren and wife; W. B. McKinley and niece, Miss Mattie; J. T. Robinson and wife; E. F. Ladd and wife. Congressmen B. L. French and wife; D. R. Anthony, wife and daughter; A. J. Griffin and wife, W. R. Wood and wife; L. C. Cramton and wife; Gordon Lee; M. B. Madden and wife; H. E. Hull and wife; J. M. Morin and wife; J. F. Miller and wife; H. M. Wursbach and wife; P. E. Quinn and wife; J. E. Rankin; C. F. Curry and son; C. E. Crisp and wife; E. E. Winslow and wife; Elliott Sproul and daughter; G. M. Young and wife; C. B. Timberlake and wife; E. C. Michener; C. L. Underhill and wife; F. N. Zihlman and wife.

New York to Hawaii—Congressmen C. L. Abernethy and wife; A. Johnson and wife; W. T. Jarrett and wife.

San Francisco to Alaska—Senators R. H. Cameron and wife; T. L. Oddie and wife; R. B. Howell and wife; L. C. Phipps and wife (will board ship at Seattle). Congressmen W. J. Driver and wife; E. T. Taylor and wife; J. Kahn and wife; C. O. Dowell.

San Francisco to Hawaii—Congressman E. B. Almon and wife.

Los Angeles to Alaska—Congressman J. G. Strong and wife.

Mailing List of U.S.M.A. Compiled and Corrected

THE adjutant's office of the U.S. Military Academy is compiling a mailing list which will include the names and addresses of all former cadets, both graduates and those who failed to finish the course.

The compilers have gone over all available sources of information and have made the list as complete and as accurate as possible. It is, of course, difficult to avoid errors in the preparation of such a list, but it is hoped, by constant revision, to reduce the number of errors to the minimum.

A bulletin was recently mailed to all those whose names appear on the list as at present compiled. Any graduate or former cadet who failed to receive one of these bulletins should write to the adjutant, U.S.M.A., and ask for a copy, so that his name may be placed on the list and that subsequent bulletins may be mailed to him. Officers whose names appear in the Army List and Directory need give only their names, whereas alumni who are now in civil life should send their addresses as well.

The dread Pyorrhea begins with bleeding gums

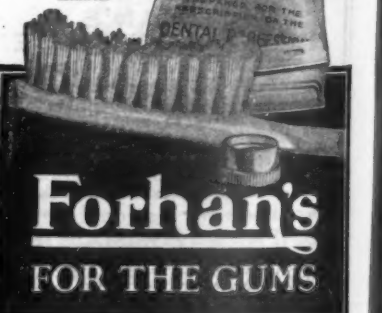

PYORRHEA'S infecting germs cause many ills. Medical science has proved this.

Many diseased conditions are now known to be the result of Pyorrhea germs that breed in pockets about the teeth. Rheumatism, anemia, nervous disorders and other diseases have been traced in many cases to this Pyorrhea infection.

Don't let Pyorrhea work its wicked will on your body. Visit your dentist frequently for teeth and gum inspection.

And watch your gums yourself. Pyorrhea, which afflicts four out of five people over forty, begins with tender and bleeding gums; then the gums recede, the teeth decay, loosen and fall out, or must be extracted to rid the system of the poisons generated at their base. Forhan's For the Gums will prevent Pyorrhea—or check its progress—if used in time and used consistently. Ordinary dentifrices cannot do this. Forhan's keeps the gums hard and healthy—the teeth white and clean. Start using it today. If gum shrinkage has set in use Forhan's according to directions and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment. 35c and 60c tubes in U.S. and Canada.

NAVAL ACADEMY.

Annapolis, Md., April 25, 1923.

The exercises of June week at the Naval Academy will begin on the morning of June 3 with services in the Naval Academy Chapel, and will last through June 7, on which day the members of the First Class will graduate in the morning and the farewell ball will take place in the evening.

This year June week will be almost purely a graduation week similar to that week at the larger colleges and universities of the country. Up to recent years the week was so full of drills and practical exercises that the midshipmen had little time to themselves. This year no midshipman will be required to do more than attend the dress parades, features of Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, and one other drill.

On Tuesday morning there will be an infantry drill by the 1st and 2d Battalions, and on Wednesday morning an exhibition of artillery by the 3d and 4th Battalions. There will be concerts and dances or other social events on each afternoon and evening during the week.

Cdr. and Mrs. Theodore W. Johnson entertained a company of thirty at supper and bridge last Thursday in celebration of their wedding anniversary. Adm. and Mrs. Wilson were guests of honor at the party.

Lt. T. D. Haley, who lived at Hotel Maryland, Annapolis, for several years, but who is now a resident of Covington, Ky., was a visitor yesterday. Lt. Haley was warmly welcomed by many old friends in Annapolis.

Official entertainments by the Superintendent for the Board of Visitors to the Naval Academy will include a buffet luncheon on Monday at one o'clock, after the board's inspection of Bancroft Hall and the gymnasium, and the reception for them after the regimental parade on Worden Field Monday afternoon. Guests at the reception will include the board members and their guests, officers, civilian instructors and their wives, all midshipmen officers, and regimental and battalion staff petty officers. On Tuesday Adm. Wilson will entertain at a dinner party for the Board of Visitors and heads of the academic departments and their wives.

Lt. Cdr. and Mrs. Francis W. Rockwell had as week-end guests John Arthur Brown and Julian W. Curtis, here in connection with the Pennsylvania crew races that afternoon.

Superintendent and Mrs. Wilson gave a supper-dance Saturday for the midshipmen of the choir and a number of their girl friends.

Lt. Cdr. and Mrs. Granville B. Hoyce were hosts at a mah jong party last Thursday night in honor of the Commandant of Midshipmen and Mrs. Kurtz.

Adm. Wilson entertained Monday at a buffet luncheon for the Board of Visitors and the heads of the academic departments. That afternoon Adm. and Mrs. Wilson had a reception in honor of the board immediately after the regimental parade on Worden Field.

Officers now on duty at the Naval Academy who have been notified that they will be ordered to the Orient and go East on the June trip of the transport Argonne are Lt. Cdr. James Parker, Alfred T. Clay, Ernest G. Small and George N. Reeves.

About 400 guests attended the reception given Monday by Superintendent and Mrs. Wilson in honor of the Board of Visitors. Receiving with Mrs. Wilson were Mmes. Tasker L. Oddie, H. T. Herr and Townsend McKeever, whose husbands are members of the board, and Mrs. Parker. The guests were presented by Flag Lt. Francis C. Denebrink. Mrs. Wilson was assisted in the dining room by Mmes. T. R. Kurtz, H. D. Cooke, Macgillivray Milne, H. E. Shoemaker, Mahaly Tiedala and L. C. Kidd. An orchestra from the Naval Academy band played.

Miss Jessie Garrison gave a farewell dinner for twelve on Saturday at the residence of her parents, Capt. and Mrs. D. M. Garrison, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. R. Lee Tatum, who left on Sunday for their home in Mississippi.

Financial Digest

This paper will be glad to furnish to its readers information on any brokerage house. A letter addressed to the Army and Navy Journal, 354 Fourth Avenue, New York City, will bring the information desired.

The statements made herein are based upon information and statistics which we consider reliable. But as not made upon our personal knowledge we do not guarantee their correctness.

THE trial of the members of the firm of Smith, Lockhart and Co. upon the charge of conspiring to cheat and defraud their customers, most of whom are in the Services, is nearing conclusion. The defendants are Allen L. Lockhart, R. Tynes Smith, Jr., Robert E. Thomas and Herman Quesler.

Ansell and Bailey, who at the request of the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL are representing the Service claimants, state that the real estate and tangible assets, which have so far come into the hands of the trustee, have been disposed of and approximately $80,000 realized from the sale. They also stated that the trustee expected to realize from the sale of the certificates of stock on hand approximately $200,000. So far the total number of general claims filed against the bankrupt estate has been 1,277, the claims representing approximately two and a half million dollars. The trustee is continuing his efforts to discover additional assets.

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

By Raymond V. Sykes.

The business outlook is taking on a more conservative appearance. After making new high records in March in nearly every line, the pace gives signs of slowing down. The output of iron and steel was the largest ever obtained, but buying is a little slower now and premiums for early delivery are not so numerous. The same trend is visible elsewhere, although it is not pronounced. Rather than a reaction in business, what seems to be taking place is a sort of stabilization of present operations around their present level.

For the second consecutive week the Irving Fisher Dollar Index has shown a gain in purchasing power. This means that average commodity prices have receded a little.

Labor is employed to the limit of availability. After a large number of wage increases in March and the early part of April, the general rate has been adjusted to the higher cost of living and there is less danger of labor unrest. Other developments, also, are encouraging, such as lower rates for call money, although this is likely to be temporary.

Overproduction of Oil.

One of the major industries that continues in a technically weak condition is that of oil. Overproduction is so pronounced and has continued for such a long period that the usual seasonal increase in consumption has not only made no impression on prices, but on the contrary both crude oil and refined products have declined in the face of greater demand.

Standard Oils of California and New Jersey, Gulf Oil and the Texas Company have all reduced gasoline prices one cent a gallon and kerosene one-half cent a gallon, within the last two weeks.

Crude oil prices, especially for that produced in California, are weak. The stock market has reflected this by general declines in all grades of oil stocks.

Prices of Stocks Steady.

While the general outlook for continued prosperity is more encouraging because business is on a more conservative basis, it is not bullish in so far as the securities market are concerned. It is probable that for the time being announcements of new high records in production and other reports of an unusually favorable character are over.

The stock market is in the position of having advanced for almost twenty months and prices of industrial stocks have discounted in the fullest the recovery in business to its present peak. If the trend were to continue upward the market would be discounting gains in business which are not taking place.

It is too early to determine whether the long downward swing in prices has begun, or whether a moderate reaction will take place and new heights be reached next fall, this depending upon the course of business during the summer and autumn. It is to be emphasized that business is not likely to go backward very far, but simply that peak production has been reached for the time being.

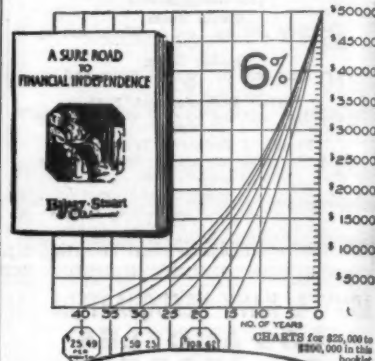

Outlook for Improvement in Rails.

Railroad stocks have not participated in the upturn to the extent they should and there is real room for improvement there. Operating officials see all the business that they can handle for many months ahead and are making strenuous efforts to place equipment and facilities in the best possible condition to handle this.

There is every indication of a new high record in gross earnings in 1923, and while operating costs will increase with the gain in traffic, the ratio will be lower than the gain in income.

Unless the unforeseen happens 1923 should be a very successful year also from the standpoint of net earnings. With the exception of certain low-priced industrials mentioned here from time to time, speculators should concentrate on the rails.

Financial Independence Through Systematic Investing

THE steady accumulation of bonds, paid for out of each month's income — with the bond interest re-invested — is the surest way for the great majority of people to build financial independence.

The opportunity to do this is afforded by the Halsey, Stuart & Co. Investment Plan. It is used increasingly by investors of large and small means. Years of usage have established its soundness and convenience.

The investor under this plan gets bonds of the highest grade — issues underwritten by ourselves — the kind which meet the safety requirements of Banks and Insurance Companies.

Our booklet, "A Sure Road to Financial Independence," gives full details. Write for Booklet D64

BUSINESS FUNDAMENTALS

or What Makes a Successful Business Man

By ROGER W. BABSON

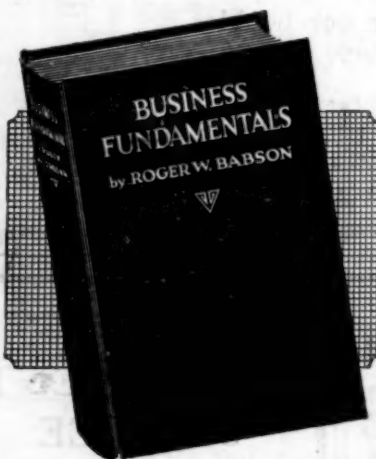

Mr. Babson says:

"Through all my experiments, investigations and experiences, I have found that there are only a few laws that are really fundamental. With these in mind a man can approach any industrial or commercial problem—the administration of almost any business or the solution of almost any financial difficulty. Therefore, a man's possibilities for success are limited only by his skill in the application of the principles."

"I am going to try to set forth these few fundamentals of success in this book and hope they may make your efforts to succeed more fruitful—that they may save you from unnecessary loss and grief."

"These fundamentals apply to every one at some stage of his career. Every man who succeeds employed them, whether he knows it or not, and it is safe to say that you will 'get there' quicker if you know where you are going."

350 Pages—amply illustrated—attractively printed—handsomely bound. Size—5 x 7 1/2 inches.

—how you can avert loss in investments and business;

—how you can increase a capital of $5,000 in investments to $200,000 within 20 years;

—how you can increase a business capital of $10,000 to $250,000 within 20 years;

The methods and plans whereby it is possible for you to accomplish these things are well defined by Roger W. Babson in an up-to-the-minute book, "Business Fundamentals," written exclusively for Forbes Magazine. These methods are the result of a 20-year study of one hundred years of business. They have been found practicable and profitable by thousands of executives and investors. Follow Mr. Babson's methods; follow his twelve time-tested indicators of business conditions, and you will be guided

—as an investor, in buying securities low and selling them high;

—as a business man, when to buy and increase your stock of goods and when to reduce prices and reduce your stock of goods;

—in forecasting conditions as to money, credits, buying power and in finding favorable and unfavorable selling territories; in knowing whether you are going ahead of, or falling behind, competitors.

Nothing is contained in this book that has not been previously tested and substantiated in actual application in business and investment.

Every page, every chapter, of the 250 pages of this book is crammed full of money-making facts and plans which you can apply at once to a very profitable operation of your security and business transactions. Every step is made clear, definite and concrete.

Questions and Answers

Questions having to do with military or naval matters will be answered in this department as soon as possible after their receipt. Communications must in all cases be signed, giving the correct name and address of the inquirer.

J. C. T. asks: (1) What would be the pay and allowances of a captain, Reserve Corps, nineteen years' service as enlisted man, four years as officer, with a dependent mother, in case of being called to active duty? (2) Do any enlisted men draw allowances for dependents under the new Pay bill of 1922?
Answer: (1) No credit for enlisted service. Full time for active commissioned service in any of services mentioned in title of Joint Pay act of June 10, 1922, or National Guard may be counted for longevity purposes; also half time for inactive service under Reserve commission. There is not sufficient information to state definitely pay, allowances to which officer would be entitled while on active service. (2) This is answered in the negative.
C. L. asks: Enlisted Dec. 15, 1920. Will I receive $90 bonus on discharge Dec. 15, 1923?
Answer: You will.

TACTICAL.

F. L. B. asks: Band executing right or left, does each pivot man face and step out with one-half step, or does he face and mark time until the marching flank comes up into place?
Answer: Each pivot man faces to the right in marching and takes up the half step in a manner similar to the pivot man in a platoon or company in column of squads. In general, a band, wherever its formation permits, con-

THEY CALLED HIM AN "OLD PILL"

THAT was years ago when he packed a terrible grouch, a mighty irritable stomach and a liver that refused to do the things that all good livers should. No wonder his friends called him an "old pill" and stayed away.

But that was years ago—long before he discovered Beecham's Pills and learned that two at bedtime can bring sunshine into a man's life. Today, he's an optimist, a hero to his wife, and a staunch believer in Beecham's Pills.

The cheer that Beecham's Pills bring into a man's disposition, is the incomparable cheer of sound digestion, active liver, and the regular habits that make good health.

forms to the Infantry Drill Regulations in the execution of its movements.

P. H. asks: The Assistant Secretary of War arrives at a station accompanied by a major general of the Q.M. Corps, both in separate automobiles. I claim that the only flag which should be shown on the autos is the one for the Assistant Secretary of War, that he is the highest ranking man and no other flag is shown. I know this is the case with salutes, Par. 401, A.R., and also on a transport. There is nothing covering this in any regulations that I can locate, so kindly publish in your next issue.

Answer: This is a matter which is apparently not covered by any published regulations. However, the general custom is that, except at a review or formation specially given in honor of the senior person present, both flags are displayed. For instance, if the distinguished persons are in separate automobiles going about a military reservation, the general practice is for each to display his flag, but at a review for the senior, only his flag would be displayed at the reviewing stand, even though the junior might be present.

DECISIONS OF THE COMPTROLLER GENERAL

1. The only essential travel for the dependents of an officer on a change of his permanent station is the direct, shortest, and usually traveled route between the two points, and the only purpose and intent of the statute [Sec. 12, act of May 18, 1920] was to relieve the officer of this expense, says the Comptroller General, who continues:

"The section does not change the obligation of the officer to the United States under his commission; he continues subject to any proper military orders, including a modification of prior orders. If, therefore, on a permanent change of station an officer, with the permission of his superiors and whether with or without a grant of leave en route, chooses a circuitous route and takes his dependents with him, a change of orders may reduce or modify the transportation to which he will be entitled for his dependents, and the statute contains no remedy for the situation. He takes the risk of a change of orders, and he must suffer the loss if the transportation authorized for his dependents is reduced thereby."

"While, therefore, in most cases an officer may be able to utilize the transportation authorized for his wife and dependent child or children on his permanent change of station in connection with his and their personal business or pleasure, there is no right under the statute to have the allowance for transportation for dependents increased should a change of orders reduce or modify the transportation which might have been issued to his dependents under his original orders."

2. In another case involving transportation for dependents the Comptroller General in this decision of April 12 says: "Where an officer is traveling under orders from one permanent station to another without delay en route and over the direct and shortest, usually traveled route, and his dependents accompany him on the journey, traveling on transportation furnished by the Government, should orders issue changing his new permanent station reach him while so en route, he will be entitled to transportation for the dependents who accompany him from his old station to the point on the route to the new station first assigned where he is required by his orders to deviate therefrom, and from that point to the new station assigned to him in his later orders."

"Note that in this case the officer is traveling over the shortest usually traveled route, there is no element of pleasure or personal convenience, and that his dependents are journeying with him in such a case such a route of travel from his old to his actual new station both for himself and the dependents who accompany him has been selected by action of the Government."

"The case is otherwise if there is any deviation from the official route, any leave or delay en route, or if his dependents do not accompany him. And if a portion, only, of his dependents accompany him, the rule is otherwise as to the dependents who do not accompany him. The case presented, it is apprehended, is unusual and will not frequently occur, as it is obvious that the cost to the Government is increased by the needless travel en route to the first designated new station."

3. The Comptroller General in another case says: "As no travel is required of the officer until the expiration of his leave, and before it has expired, he is retired, he is not entitled to transportation for his dependents for any portion of his journey from his last permanent station to his home; 27 Comp. Dec. 61, 1 Comp. Gen. 677, and the fact that orders to be effective after the expiration of his leave, assign him a new permanent station have led him to move himself and his dependents in the direction of such newly assigned station will not change his rights under the statute."

4. An officer received his retirement orders while changing trains on permanent change of station orders. The Comptroller General says: "It is assumed that the retirement is other than for age. As the officer traveled on the official, i.e., the direct and shortest usually traveled route, under orders changing his permanent station and without delay en route, he is entitled to transportation for the dependents within the statute who actually accompanied him on the journey and for whom transportation at the expense of the Government had issued, to the point reached when retirement orders were delivered to him. As to dependents, if any, who did not accompany him, the rule would be otherwise. Here again it is suggested that the case presented is unusual, as good administration would require to require such co-ordination between the section or branch of the War Department in charge of retirement matters and the section or branch in charge of change of station orders as would not frequently permit the issuance of orders directing a permanent change of station of an officer whose retirement was so imminent and so urgent that the order of retirement was required to be delivered to him en route on change of station orders."
